The Honorable Ted Budd
U.S. House of Representatives
118 Cannon House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Colleague:

Pursuant to House Rule 25, clause 5(d)(2), the Committee on Ethics hereby approves your proposed trip to St. Louis, Missouri, scheduled for November 21 to 22, 2019, sponsored by Bipartisan Policy Center, with financial support from Square One Foundation.

You must complete a Member/Officer Post-Travel Disclosure Form and file it, together with a Sponsor Post-Travel Disclosure Form completed by the trip sponsor, with the Clerk of the House within 15 days after your return from travel. As part of that filing, you are also required to attach a copy of this letter and both the Traveler and Primary Trip Sponsor Forms (including attachments) you previously submitted to the Committee in seeking pre-approval for this trip. You must also report all travel expenses totaling more than $390 from a single source on the "Travel" schedule of your annual Financial Disclosure Statement covering this calendar year. Finally, Travel Regulation § 404(d) also requires you to keep a copy of all request forms and supporting information provided to the Committee for three subsequent Congresses from the date of travel.

If you have any further questions, please contact the Committee's Office of Advice and Education at extension 5-7103.

Sincerely,

Theodore E. Deutch
Chairman

Addendum - Primary Trip Sponsor Form

Item 4. Representative Ted Budd:

Representative Ted Budd represents North Carolina's 13th Congressional District and is currently serving in his first term. Rep. Budd serves on the House Financial Services Committee and three of its subcommittees: Housing, Community Development & Insurance; Consumer Protection and Financial Institutions; and Diversity and Inclusion. In visiting Missouri's 1st Congressional District, Rep Budd will engage with issues relevant to his committee assignments and his representational duties to NC-13, as well as issues of critical national importance that regularly come before Congress. He will also gain perspective on the needs and interests of a mostly urban congressional district, which contrasts with NC-13's mix of urban, suburban, and rural areas.

Issues important to Rep. Budd, such as financial services, housing and urban development, local economic development, and agriculture and scientific research, are also of great importance to MO-1 and will be on display throughout the trip. For example, civic and business leaders in Ferguson will discuss the community's recent revitalization and job creation efforts. Related to federal health care policy, Rep. Budd will visit the Lacy Clay Center for Children's Health, a part of one of the largest federally qualified health centers in the country. Further, there will be a visit to the National Geospatial Intelligence Agency, a critical component of the national security apparatus. This visit will provide a greater understanding of the agency's mission and operations, as well as a briefing from staff on key national security issues. North Carolina is also home to significant agricultural interests, and Rep. Budd will visit a cutting edge research facility where teams focus research at the nexus of food, energy and the environment to improve the productivity and sustainability of agriculture.

Curtis Kalin: Curtis Kalin serves as Rep. Budd's communications director. In many of the same ways that the meetings and site visits on this trip will further Rep. Budd's understanding of critical issues for his district and the nation, so too will they further Kalin's understanding of these critical issues and enhance his ability to support Rep. Budd in his representational capacities. Kalin will gain a deeper understanding of financial services, housing and urban development, local economic development, intelligence and national security, and agriculture and scientific research. Because Kalin's role involves supporting Rep. Budd in a communications function across all policy areas, each of these and more are relevant to his official duties.

Item 7 (b):

Thurs., Nov 21

- 3:25 p.m. Dep. DCA, SW #1972, (Budd, Kalin)
- 4:50 CST Arr. STL
- 5:10-5:35 Drive from airport to Gateway Arch.
- 5:35-6:00 Walking tour of Gateway Arch National Park, riverfront.

The two members will meet with representatives of the National Park Service to learn about The Gateway Arch and how it reflects St. Louis' role in the Westward Expansion of the United States during the nineteenth century. The park is a memorial to Thomas Jefferson's role in opening the West, to the pioneers who helped shape its history, and to Dred Scott who sued for his freedom in the Old Courthouse. The arch itself, designed by Eero Saarinen, is the world's tallest arch, and the tallest man-made monument in the Western Hemisphere. A few years ago, a new visitors center, museum, and park/plaza were built, with a combination of federal, state, local, and private funding. This created a continuous public park over I-70 that lets visitors walk uninterrupted from the historic Old Courthouse to the Arch. The park's landscape has changed markedly over the last few years, as new features have been rolled out. They extend from the playfully remade Kiener Plaza, a civic gathering spot just west of the Old Courthouse, to the banks of the Mississippi, where a riverfront boulevard was raised slightly to reduce flooding and bike lanes were installed.

6:00-6:45 Walking tour of Kiener Plaza, Ballpark Village, downtown plazas.

The remade spaces of the plazas that extend west from the Mississippi River, respect the curving geometry of the original Arch grounds, even as they introduce user-friendly tweaks. The projects can be deemed a major success in its reinvention of a historic landscape and the connections it forges between that landscape and the surrounding city. The landscape architecture reshaped the urban conditions and expectations for downtown St. Louis. Kiener Plaza is a gathering spot for downtown workers and visitors. Ballpark Village is a dining, residential, office, retail, and entertainment district owned by the investment group that controls the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team. It was meant to compliment Busch Stadium, which opened in 2006. Financing of Ballpark Village has been a public/private venture. Rep. Budd's congressional district has also used public financing including federal historic tax credits, Community Development Block Grants, and HOME Investment Partnership Program funding to launch residential and commercial projects in Greensboro.

6:45-7:00 Drive to Dinner, TBD

7:00-8:45 Dinner

8:45-9:00 Drive to St. Louis Union Station Hilton Hotel, 1820 Market St. for check-in.

Fri., Nov 22

7:15 a.m. Check-out of hotel.

7:30-8:45 a.m. Breakfast at hotel with STL Partnership/St. Louis Regional COC.

Rep. Budd and Rep. Clay will meet with several business and civic leaders from the two leading economic development institutions in St. Louis. They will discuss the economic profile of St. Louis, trends, challenges, and strategy for the region. The conversation will highlight the focused economic clusters of financial services, health, multi-modal logistics, and biosciences.

With both members serving on the Financial Services Committee, this will be an opportunity to discuss the work of major employers like Edward Jones, Scottrade, and Wells Fargo Advisors, all of whom are headquartered in St. Louis. The meeting will also feature the three major priorities for St. Louis' future economic development: greater educational attainment, inclusion and talent attraction, entrepreneurship and innovation.

8:45-9:00 Drive to National Geospatial Intelligence Agency, 3200 South 2nd St.

9:00-10:30 Tour & Briefing of NGIA.

The National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency is the nation's primary source of geospatial intelligence, or GEOINT for the Department of Defense and the U.S. Intelligence Community. As a DOD combat support agency and a member of the IC, NGA provides GEOINT, in support of U.S. national security and defense, as well as disaster relief. GEOINT is the exploitation and analysis of imagery and geospatial information that describes, assesses and visually depicts physical features and geographically referenced activities on the Earth. NGA employs approximately 14,500 government civilians, military members and contractors, with one-third of the workforce located at NGA's two St. Louis facilities. Next NGA West, the future home of the $1.7 billion NGA headquarters and located in St. Louis, is the largest federal investment project in the history of the city. The 97-acre campus in North St. Louis, slated to be operational in 2025, will feature a 712,000-square-foot office building with a garage, visitor center, and inspection facility.

Rep. Budd and Mr. Kalin will gain insight into a major national security mission serving both the Department of Defense and the Intelligence Community. They will also get an update on progress on the new facility's construction, a major federal investment whose continued funding is relevant to appropriations legislation that will come before Congress. They will meet with Brett Markham, West Executive & Deputy Associate Director for Operations, and tour facilities.

11:00-12:00p.m. Visit Lacy Clay Center for Children's Health.

Part of the Amanda Luckett Murphy Hopewell Center, which is operated by the Betty Jean Kerr People's Health Centers, the Lacy Clay Center for Children's Health opened in July 2017 as a new $6.5M comprehensive behavioral health center for young people, made possible by a $3M federal investment in community healthcare. The outpatient, residential, and psychiatric rehabilitation services at the health center are designed to help child and adolescent consumers, with mental illness, to function within the community. The mission of the ALM Hopewell Center is to improve the quality of life for the mentally challenged by decreasing the incidence of mental disabilities and their negative impact through hope, treatment and wellness. Rep. Budd and Rep. Clay will meet with Dwayne Butler, executive director, and visit with other staff to discuss Healthcare Home Services, School-based Services, Therapy, and the Chicago Parenting Program, as well as the RISE Transition-Age-Youth program. Rep. Budd has taken a great interest in children's health during his tenure in Congress and been supportive of health institutions in his district including Duke Children's Specialty Services clinic in Greensboro.

12:00-12:20 Drive to Cathy's Kitchen, 250 S. Florissant Rd., Ferguson

12:20-1:30 Lunch at Cathy's Kitchen w/ Ferguson Community Leaders.

This restaurant serves as both a culinary and social institution in Ferguson. The restaurant offers a variety of dishes from different regions of the country but specializes in African American cuisine and Soul Food. Reps. Budd and Clay will meet with Ferguson business and civic leaders who will discuss the rebuilding of Ferguson after the 2014 riots. With both members serving communities in their respective districts that have racially diverse constituencies, they will discuss strategies to overcome historic racial inequities.

1:30-1:45 Drive to Centene Ferguson Service Center, 2900 Pershall Rd., St. Louis

1:45-2:45 Tour and meeting at Centene Ferguson Service Center.

Centene is a multi-state, multinational managed care healthcare company that serves as a major intermediary for both government-sponsored and privately insured health care programs. It is the 2nd largest publicly traded corporation based in the state of Missouri. With more than 52,000 total employees and more than 15 million members, including 2.9 million TRICARE eligible individuals, Centene is a major local and national employer as well as healthcare provider.

Particularly relevant to MO-1, Centene opened this center in Ferguson—a goal set by the company after violence broke out in the city in 2014—in hopes of encouraging the return of employers who left Ferguson. The company's $25 million facility employs more than 250 individuals, many of them local to Ferguson. The Ferguson Commission, which investigated the causes of the 2014 unrest, cited lack of job opportunities as a significant driver. The visit will provide Rep. Budd and Mr. Kalin with insight into the company's role as a major employer and a major healthcare provider. It will include a discussion with Michael F. Neidorff, Chairman and CEO, about the company's job creation decisions and investment in local communities, as well as the company's local approach to healthcare services. The tour will include the 45,000 square foot facility, providing insight into the operations of a large healthcare company.

2:45-3:00 Drive to Boys & Girls Club Teen Center of Excellence, 9200 W. Florissant Ave., Ferguson

3:00-4:00 Tour and meeting at Teen Center of Excellence.

The Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater St. Louis offers after-school, teen, sports and summer programs to youth in the St. Louis area while also providing a safe place for children to learn and grow. BGCSTL serves more than 1,500 teens annually.

Opened in October 2019, the Teen Center of Excellence is a $12.4 million facility which is home to afterschool and summer programs for teens and youth (ages 12-18) in Missouri's First Congressional District. The organization was driven by a belief that, "Building a Boys & Girls Club in the Ferguson area will produce positive outcomes in a community that has been subsumed with difficult realities and negative images." The program's success has the potential to impact children's lives and the city by helping its youth build strong character, graduate from high school with a plan for life, and become productive citizens. Programming focuses on health & wellness, education & workforce development (ie college tours, ACT/SAT prep, tutoring), STEM (i.e. coding, app creation, robotics) and, leadership & civic engagement (i.e. fine and performing arts, community service, applied arts).

This visit will give Rep. Budd and Mr. Kalin insight into a major local revitalization initiative that involves urban development as well as secondary and post-secondary education, workforce development, arts and humanities, community and national service, all of which are issues that come before Congress. Rep. Budd and Mr. Kalin will have an opportunity to tour the facility and meet with Dr. Flint Fowler, President of the Boys & Girls Club of Greater St. Louis, as well as Indigo K. Sams, Vice President, Operations & Programs, and Keisha Caruthers, Director, Program Initiatives.

4:00-4:30 Drive to Donald Danforth Plant Science Center at 39 North Innovation District, 975 North Warson Rd., St. Louis

4:30-5:30 Visit Danforth Plant Science Center.

The Danforth Center opened in 2001 and provides outstanding research and training facilities including five scientific core facilities, compartmentalized greenhouses and environmentally controlled growth chambers and growth rooms. The new wing will strengthen and expand priority research areas, provide the capacity and technology to accelerate outcomes and advance the Danforth Center as a collaborative hub that connects regional, national and international partners to improve the human condition through plant science.

The four story addition provides open, flexible lab spaces for up to 100 scientists, an advanced plant growth facility, a computational crop improvement lab and a Maker Shop for new instrument development.

The Danforth Center is committed to enhancing the St. Louis region as a world center for plant science and creating new jobs for future generations. The most visible result of this commitment is the Bio Research & Development Growth (BRDG) Park located on the north eight acres of the Center's campus. The Danforth Center also is surrounded by the new 39 North Innovation District which also includes the Helix Incubator, Yield Lab, and Monsanto.

Reps. Budd and Clay will meet with leaders of the Danforth Plant Center, BRDG Park, and 39 North to have a conversation about the latest developments in plant science and agriculture technology. For Rep. Clay, his district is in the I-70 Animal Health Corridor and has leading agri-science companies. For Rep. Budd, he has North Carolina Agriculture and Technical State University in his 13th North Carolina congressional district and the Piedmont region has substantial corn, oats, cattle, and, of course, tobacco.

5:30-5:50 Drive to STL Airport.

6:37 CST Dep. STL, AA #2231; (Budd)

9:30 EST Arr. CLT (Budd)

15. b. 2

As referenced above, in MO-1, Rep. Budd and Curtis Kalin will gain valuable insights into a variety of topics relevant to his committees and priorities in Congress representing North Carolina's 13th Congressional District.

Rep. Budd and Mr. Kalin will have the opportunity to meet with civic and business leaders to discuss and learn about their efforts and strategies for economic growth and redevelopment in St. Louis, where the population has fallen from a peak of 857,000 in 1950 to 303,000 today. Rep. Budd represents both suburban and urban areas, as well as rural areas, which in contrast to MO-1, is almost entirely urban.

Budd and Kalin will be able to experience the impact of federally-funded facilities such as the National Geospatial Intelligence Agency, Gateway Arch National Park, and a number of social/human service programs which are addressing equity issues in places like Ferguson, which saw violent social unrest in 2014. Rep Budd and Mr. Kalin will also visit the Danforth Plant Science Center, which will be valuable as his district has a good deal of agricultural activity.

Finally, Rep. Budd and Mr. Kalin will meet with local community leaders who are engaged in affordable housing developments using market-based strategies. This comports with Rep. Budd's service on the House Financial Services Committee and three of its subcommittees: Housing, Community Development & Insurance; Consumer Protection and Financial Institutions; and Diversity and Inclusion.

American Congressional Exchange

Ted Budd (R-NC-13) Visiting William Lacy Clay (D-MO-1), Nov. 21-22, 2019

Thurs., Nov 21

3:25 p.m. Dep. DCA, SW #1972, (Ted Budd, Curtis Kalin)

4:50 CST Arr. STL

5:10-5:35 Drive from airport to Gateway Arch.

5:35-6:00 Walking tour of Gateway Arch National Park, riverfront.

Meet Michael Ward, Superintendent, Gateway Arch N.P.

Park in bus drop-off space, across from Drury Plaza Hotel, next to Luther Ely Smith Park.

The two members will meet with representatives of the National Park Service to learn about The Gateway Arch and how it reflects St. Louis' role in the Westward Expansion of the United States during the nineteenth century. The park is a memorial to Thomas Jefferson's role in opening the West, to the pioneers who helped shape its history, and to Dred Scott who sued for his freedom in the Old Courthouse. The arch itself, designed by Ero Saarinen, is the world's tallest arch, and the tallest man-made monument in the Western Hemisphere.

A few years ago, a new visitors center, museum, and park/plaza were built, with a combination of federal, state, local, and private funding. This created a continuous public park over I-70 that lets visitors walk uninterrupted from the historic Old Courthouse to the Arch. The park's landscape has changed markedly over the last few years, as new features have been rolled out. They extend from the playfully remade Kiener Plaza, a civic gathering spot just west of the Old Courthouse, to the banks of the Mississippi, where a riverfront boulevard was raised slightly to reduce flooding and bike lanes were installed.

6:00-6:45 Walking tour of Kiener Plaza, Ballpark Village, downtown plazas.

The remade spaces of the plazas that extend west from the Mississippi River, respect the curving geometry of the original Arch grounds, even as they introduce user-friendly tweaks. The projects can be deemed a major success in its reinvention of a historic landscape and the connections it forges between that landscape and the surrounding city. The landscape architecture reshaped the urban conditions and expectations for downtown St. Louis. Kiener Plaza is a gathering spot for downtown workers and visitors.

Ballpark Village is a dining, residential, office, retail, and entertainment district owned by the investment group that controls the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team. It was meant to compliment Busch Stadium, which opened in 2006. Financing of Ballpark Village has been a public/private venture.

Rep. Budd's congressional district has also used public financing including federal historic tax credits, Community Development Block Grants, and HOME Investment Partnership Program funding to launch residential and commercial projects in Greensboro.

6:45-7:00 Drive to Salt + Smoke, 6525 Delmar Blvd.

7:30-8:45 a.m. Breakfast at Station Grille (private room) in hotel with St. Louis Regional Chamber of Commerce. Contact: Katie

Attendees Confirmed:

Rich Ryffel, Executive Director and Missouri Market Manager, J.P. Morgan Private Bank
Dan Sprehe, Managing Director of Corporate Responsibility, Central Region, J.P. Morgan Bank
Jesse Hill, Principal, Legal-Government & Regulatory Affairs, Edward Jones
Lawrence Otto, President, U.S. Bank, St. Louis
Emily Romines, Government Affairs, Spire
Peter Leibold, Chief Advocacy Officer, Ascension Health
Mark Hayes, Senior V.P. for Federal Policy & Advocacy, Ascension Health
Tom Chulick, President & CEO, St. Louis Regional COC
Austin Walker, Vice President for Public Policy, St. Louis Regional COC

Rep. Budd and Rep. Clay will meet with several business and civic leaders from the two leading economic development institutions in St. Louis. They will discuss the economic profile of St. Louis, trends, challenges, and strategy for the region. The conversation will highlight the focused economic clusters of financial services, health, multi-modal logistics, and biosciences. With both members serving on the Financial Services Committee, this will be an opportunity to discuss the work of major employers like Edward Jones, Scottrade, and Wells Fargo Advisors, all of whom are headquartered in St. Louis. The meeting will also feature the three major priorities for St. Louis' future economic development: greater educational attainment, inclusion and talent attraction, entrepreneurship and innovation.

8:45-9:00 Drive to National Geospatial Intelligence Agency, 3200 South 2nd St.

9:00-10:45 Tour & Briefing of NGIA.

Presenters: Dr. Lisa Williams, Public Affairs Officer (314-676-0209); David Berczek, PMP; Chief, Corporate Communications West.

Security: electronics and other devices should be left in your vehicle. Security will direct you on arrival and there will be a welcome party to greet you after you park

Parking: Rep. Clay will park in space A-163 and Rep. Budd will park in space A-164. Security will direct you to the spaces when you arrive at the gate to the facility

The National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency is the nation's primary source of geospatial intelligence, or GEOINT for the Department of Defense and the U.S. Intelligence Community. As a DOD combat support agency and a member of the IC, NGA provides GEOINT, in support of U.S. national security and defense, as well as disaster relief. GEOINT is the exploitation and analysis of imagery and geospatial information that describes, assesses and visually depicts physical features and geographically referenced activities on the Earth.

NGA employs approximately 14,500 government civilians, military members and contractors, with one-third of the workforce located at NGA's two St. Louis facilities.

Next NGA West, the future home of the $1.7 billion NGA headquarters and located in St. Louis, is the largest federal investment project in the history of the city. The 97-acre campus in North St. Louis, slated to be operational in 2025, will feature a 712,000-square-foot office building with a garage, visitor center, and inspection facility.

Rep. Budd and Mr. Kalin will gain insight into a major national security mission serving both the Department of Defense and the Intelligence Community. They will also get an update on progress on the new facility's construction, a major federal investment whose continued funding is relevant to appropriations legislation that will come before Congress. They will meet with Brett Markham, West Executive & Deputy Associate Director for Operations, and tour facilities.

10:45-11:15 Drive to Lacy Clay Center for Children's Health-Hopewell Center, 5647 Delmar Blvd. (photo op. at Anheuser-Busch Brewery en-route)

11:15-12:15 p.m. Visit Lacy Clay Center for Children's Health
Dwayne Butler, Executive Director

Part of the Amanda Luckett Murphy Hopewell Center, which is operated by the Betty Jean Kerr People's Health Centers, the Lacy Clay Center for Children's Health opened in July 2017 as a new $6.5M comprehensive behavioral health center for young people, made possible by a $3M federal investment in community healthcare. The outpatient, residential, and psychiatric rehabilitation services at the health center are designed to help child and adolescent consumers, with mental illness, to function within the community.

The mission of the ALM Hopewell Center is to improve the quality of life for the mentally challenged by decreasing the incidence of mental disabilities and their negative impact through hope, treatment and wellness.

Rep. Budd and Rep. Clay will meet with Dwayne Butler, executive director, and visit with other staff to discuss Healthcare Home Services, School-based Services, Therapy, and the Chicago Parenting Program, as well as the RISE Transition-Age-Youth program. Rep. Budd has taken a great interest in children's health during his tenure in Congress and been supportive of health institutions in his district including Duke Children's Specialty Services clinic in Greensboro.

- 11:15-11:25: Main Lobby—Introduction, Leaders and CEO
- 11:25-11:35: CSS Bull Pen—Review of the role of Community Support Staff and Community Health Workers in providing community care and addressing social determinants of health.

o Community Support Staff work out in the community meeting client's needs where they are and provide support, case management, navigation, and care coordination. This room is where those staff congregate to input outcome data, consult with peers/supervisors, and debrief their work.

- 11:35-11:45: PCIT/Observation Room (2nd Floor)—Address the importance of skills based and evidence-based services in upstream interventions that prevent long-term negative impacts of trauma, community violence, and poverty.
 - o This space is unique in that it consists of two rooms with a two-way mirror connecting them. This provides opportunity to provide Parent Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT), an evidence-based family therapy intervention. It also provides opportunity for supervisors to watch and coach therapists in training while in session.
- 11:45-11:55: Art Therapy Room (2nd Floor)—Address the importance of the arts in assisting children to develop the language to communicate experience of trauma and develop a survivor vs. a victim narrative
 - o This room provides ample space and environment for artistic expression, group therapy, and opportunity to interact with peers in pro-social and productive ways.
- 11:55-12:05: Tele-Psychiatry Room (2nd Floor)—Address the importance of creating access to care through innovative delivery mechanisms that focus on quality over method of delivery
 - o Tele-health and technology are playing an important role in creating capacity to treat youth in underserved areas with high quality psychiatric care.
- 12:05-12:15 Departure--Q/A walk through upstairs lobby and downstairs lobby.

12:15-12:30 Drive to Cathy's Kitchen, 250 S. Florissant Rd., Ferguson

12:30-1:45 Lunch at Cathy's Kitchen w/ Ferguson Community Leaders.
Contact: Jerome Jenkins

This restaurant serves as both a culinary and social institution in Ferguson. The restaurant offers a variety of dishes from different regions of the country but specializes in African-American cuisine and Soul Food. Reps. Budd and Clay will meet with Ferguson business and civic leaders who will discuss the rebuilding of Ferguson after the 2014 riots. With both members serving communities in their respective districts that have racially diverse constituencies, they will discuss strategies to overcome historic racial inequities.

Cathy Jenkins and her husband, Jerome (who we will meet with), opened the restaurant in 2013 and quickly became a leader in the Ferguson area. In 2014, during the civil unrest in Ferguson, Cathy's Kitchen was one of the few businesses spared damage as many customers came to protect this cherished business. Today, the restaurant not only serves great food but is also a place where the local community convenes to further the effort to bring investment to Ferguson.
