12. Description of the sponsor's interest in the subject matter of the trip and its role in organizing and/or conducting the trip:

The UN Foundation (UNF) works to educate all Americans, including the U.S. Congress, on the importance of a strong U.S.-UN relationship, with a focus on interconnected issues such as global health, nutrition, sustainable development, and peace and security. This learning trip provides an opportunity for policymakers to better understand bilateral and multilateral efforts to strengthen health systems in Mongolia, respond to food insecurity and nutrition challenges, promote conservation and biodiversity, protect cultural heritage, preserve traditional knowledge, practices, and historical sites, and advance economic growth and development.

The Eleanor Crook Foundation (ECF) was founded in 1997 with a single goal: to eradicate global malnutrition. ECF invests in research that proves what methods work, policy analysis to drive systems reform, and advocacy that makes the case for urgent action to address this global crisis. In 2017, the Foundation pledged $100 million towards the elimination of global malnutrition.

UNF is organizing all aspects of the program/logistics. UNF handles all outreach to congressional offices and is the contact for planning purposes. UNF received a grant from ECF to partially support this trip. ECF has not played any role in organizing this trip and has not been involved in the selection or invitation of the trip participants.

15b2. Provide the reason for selecting the location of the event or trip:

Since its peaceful transition to democracy in 1990, Mongolia has undergone profound political and economic change. Recent years have seen rapid urbanization and significant growth fueled by the country's abundant natural resources, including copper, gold, and coal. These industries have helped put the country on a path towards achieving upper-middle-income status within the next few years.

At the same time, Mongolia faces an array of development challenges. The country's overreliance on the extractive sector has driven economic growth but left the country vulnerable to global commodity fluctuations and contributed to environmental degradation, water scarcity, and biodiversity loss. Rapid urbanization has also outpaced infrastructure development, leading to the proliferation of informal settlements with limited access to clean water, sanitation, and reliable energy. Meanwhile, growing income inequality and persistent gaps in education and healthcare continue to undermine human development outcomes. These issues are further compounded by institutional constraints, including weak regulatory enforcement, limited institutional transparency, and corruption.

Over the course of five days, the delegation will engage with the UN Country Team, U.S. Embassy, and senior officials from the Government of Mongolia in Ulaanbaatar to discuss these challenges in-depth and observe how the UN is working with local stakeholders to respond to competing needs on the ground, including efforts to strengthen transparency and accountability, advance economic growth, enhance the efficiency and responsiveness of public institutions, and expand access to quality healthcare—especially in maternal and child health, immunization coverage, and nutrition.

We will also examine how the Government of Mongolia and the UN are working together to protect two of Mongolia's most vital assets: its complex biodiversity and unique cultural heritage. Through firsthand exploration of efforts focused on sustainable land and water management, protected area expansion, field conservation, and the preservation of traditional knowledge, practices, and historical understanding, the delegation will be provided a comprehensive view of bilateral and multilateral efforts across the country.

Lastly, strategically sandwiched between China and Russia, this trip will be an opportunity to assess some of the larger geopolitical developments at play in Mongolia, including evolving great power dynamics and their implications for continued U.S. leadership in the region.

The temple was constructed between 1904 and 1908 at a time when Mongolia was still under Qing control. The Choijin Temple complex originally served as a place of worship and as a residence for monks and was dedicated to the Three Great Masters of Buddhism, particularly the prominent Buddhist teacher Choijamts. Choijin Temple is unique in its combination of Tibetan and Mongolian architectural styles, which reflect Mongolia’s close ties with Tibetan Buddhism.

During the expert guided tour, the delegation will learn how many religious institutions in Mongolia were destroyed or repurposed during the Soviet-influenced purges of the 1930s and how the Choijin Temple was saved from destruction largely due to its status as a cultural and historical landmark. In the 1940s, the complex was repurposed as a museum dedicated to Mongolian Buddhist culture, and it remains a museum to this day, offering an important window into Mongolia's spiritual traditions before the Communist era, showcasing how Buddhism was once deeply woven into the fabric of Mongolian society.

The delegation will also have the chance to see a temple being restored with U.S. funds under the Ambassador's Fund for Cultural Preservation.

3:15pm – 4:15pm Visit to Mongolian Arts Council, with UNESCO Briefing on History of Traditional Mongolian Script, and Meeting and Demonstration by Uransaikhan Bileg, Mongolian Calligraphy Artist

The delegation will visit the Mongolian Arts Council and be briefed by UNESCO on the history of traditional Mongolian script—one of the oldest and most unique writing systems in the world—and recent efforts to preserve and promote the traditional writing system, which was recognized by UNESCO as part of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity in 2010.

Despite its 800-year history, traditional Mongolian script was at significant risk of going extinct for much of the 20th century, particularly after the country's adoption of the Cyrillic alphabet in the 1940s. The transition to Cyrillic was part of a broader political and cultural shift influenced by Soviet policies, which sought to modernize and standardize the country along Soviet lines. This move deeply impacted the traditional script, leading to its gradual decline in use and practice.

The delegation will learn about the creation of the script, which can trace its roots to Uighur script which was adapted by Chinggis Khaan in the 13th century to write the Mongol language, and government-led initiatives to promote the use of the traditional script, including the Law on Mongolian Script, which was passed in 2018, and aims to restore the traditional script to public life, especially in official documents, signage, and media.

3:00pm – 4:00pm Visit to Gandantegchinlen Monastery and Meeting with Lama Gankhuyag Magsarjav, Head of Foreign Affairs and Bayar Enkhbold, Head of Administration

The delegation will visit Gandantegchinlen Monastery and meet with representatives of the Monastery's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, on behalf of His Holiness the Khamba Lama, to discuss the importance of interfaith dialogue, international cooperation, and multilateralism. They will receive a guided tour of the Monastery compound from Lama Gankhuyag.

Gandantegchinlen Monastery is one of Mongolia's most significant and active Buddhist centers. Founded in the early 19th century, Gandantegchinlen was one of the very few religious institutions in Mongolia that survived the Soviet-backed purge of the 1930s. While nearly all other monasteries were destroyed and thousands of monks were killed or imprisoned, Gandantegchinlen was spared—primarily because the Mongolian government, under Soviet influence, chose to keep it open as a symbolic “show monastery.” This allowed them to demonstrate to the outside world that religious freedom still existed in Mongolia, even though, in reality, most religious practice had been brutally suppressed. However, the monastery’s activities were strictly controlled, and only a small number of monks were allowed to reside and perform rituals under government supervision.

Despite these limitations, Gandantegchinlen became a crucial refuge for preserving Buddhist knowledge, scriptures, and traditions in a time of severe persecution. It remained the only functioning monastery in the country for decades and later played a central role in the revival of Mongolian Buddhism after the fall of communism in the early 1990s. Today, Gandantegchinlen houses hundreds of monks and serves as a symbol of Mongolia’s spiritual resilience and cultural heritage.

4:00pm – 4:45pm Transit via hired car to Ger District of Ulaanbaatar

4:45pm – 5:30pm Visit to Coal-to-Solar Ger Project, Supported by the UN Development Programme (UNDP)

The delegation will visit a local family’s ger (yurt) to learn how UNDP is helping increase access to clean energy and reducing air pollution in Ulaanbaatar’s population-dense Ger District via the Coal-to-Solar Project.

Over 1.6 million people live in Ulaanbaatar—nearly half of which rely exclusively on coal-based heating to survive the harsh winters. The resulting air pollution reaches up to 27 times WHO’s recommended safe levels at its peak, posing severe health risks and significant economic costs. The Coal-to-Solar Project, which is still in pilot phase, selected 69 largely women-led households to install solar panels and battery storage systems in the city’s ger districts, eliminating any need to use coal. By doing so, the project aims to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower energy costs for families, and improve public health by decreasing respiratory illnesses linked to coal smoke.

The pilot project has shown promising results, reducing household coal consumption and improving quality of life. Plans are now underway to expand the programme, with additional households in Chingeltei District, Ulaanbaatar set to transition to solar solutions in 2025.

The delegation will tour the Five Hills Training Center—a Mongolian military training facility designed to enhance the country’s defense capabilities and its collaboration with international partners, particularly the UN, U.S. and other NATO members. The center serves as a hub for joint military exercises, UN peacekeeping operations training, and multinational cooperation.

The delegation will be briefed on Mongolia’s longstanding contributions to UN peacekeeping operations, including an update on the currently 900 Mongolian Armed Forces that are serving in seven UN peacekeeping missions around the world, most notably the approximately 850 soldiers serving in the UN Mission in South Sudan. They will additionally receive an update on how the U.S.'s Global Peace Operations Initiative (GPOI), led by the State Department's Bureau of Political-Military Affairs and the Department of Defense, is strengthening Mongolia's global peacekeeping capacity.

More than 22,000 Mongolian military personnel have participated in UN peacekeeping missions over the last 20 years. 11:30am – 12:15pm Transit via hired car to Khanbogd Cashmere

12:15pm – 1:45pm Expert Tour of Khanbogd Cashmere Factory, Briefing on the International Trade Centre's (ITC) SheTrades Hub, and Working Lunch with Gantsetseg Choidon, Founder and CEO of Khanbogd Cashmere

The delegation will visit Khanbogd's cashmere processing facility to learn how the UN has played a key role in supporting the sustainable development of Mongolia's iconic cashmere industry. Khanbogd Cashmere is a member of the SheTrades Hub, an initiative of the International Trade Centre (ITC), a joint agency of the UN and WTO. Khanbogd opened in Mongolia in 2023 and the UN has been cooperating with them since the establishment of the hub.

The cashmere industry is a vital pillar of Mongolia's economy, supporting around one-third of the population and accounting for a significant share of the country's non-mineral exports. The industry also holds deep cultural importance, though its rapid growth has raised sustainability challenges such as overgrazing and land degradation.

The delegation will be briefed on how the UN is helping strengthen value chains, promoting environmental stewardship, and empowering local communities. Through initiatives like the Green and Inclusive Value Chains project, the UN has helped herders and cooperatives adopt sustainable herding practices, improve product quality, and gain access to high-end markets through eco-labeling and certifications. It has also promoted climate-resilient livestock management to combat challenges like overgrazing and desertification, while supporting women entrepreneurs and small-scale processors in rural areas.

2:30pm – 3:30pm

Visit to National Center for Communicable Diseases (NCCD) and Tour of National Vaccine Cold-Storage Facility, Supported by UNICEF and World Health Organization (WHO)

The delegation will visit Mongolia’s National Center for Communicable Diseases (NCCD)—the country’s premier public health institution responsible for the surveillance, diagnosis, prevention, and control of infectious diseases, providing methodological guidance and laboratory services nationwide. Since the COVID-19 pandemic, the NCCD has considerably strengthened its capacities and capabilities, receiving advanced next-generation sequencing (NGS) equipment from WHO and the Government of Australia.

The delegation will learn how the NCCD received a major boost in its vaccine cold-storage capabilities thanks to UNICEF and the World Bank’s COVID-19 Emergency Response and Health Systems Preparedness Project. In 2021, UNICEF spearheaded the construction of a modern, two-story, 1,686 m² Central Vaccine Store at the NCCD, quadrupling national vaccine storage capacity. The facility is equipped with a range of cold chain infrastructure—from +2 °C to ultracold -80 °C freezers, walk-in cold rooms, and energy-efficient systems—all built to international standards and resistant to earthquakes up to magnitude 8.0. This new facility ensures Mongolia’s ability to safely store and distribute both COVID-19 and routine vaccines for years to come, significantly enhancing the nation’s immunization resilience and public health preparedness.

The delegation will meet with Minister of Health Sodnomyn Chinzorig, and visit Mongolia’s new Public Health Emergency Operations Centre (PHEOC), which was launched on February 28, 2025 under the Ministry of Health with support from WHO and funded by the World Bank’s Pandemic Fund.

The delegation will learn how the PHEOC serves as a national command hub for coordinating responses to health crises. Built following WHO technical guidance and best practices, the PHEOC operates in three critical modes—Watch, Alert, and Response—enabling systematic early-warning, risk assessment, escalation, and incident management. With its modular design and plans for nationwide training and localization of simulations, the PHEOC is rapidly becoming a cornerstone of Mongolia’s strategy to enhance preparedness, agility, and resilience against current and future public health emergencies.

Enkhjargal, it is the world’s tallest equestrian statue.

The statue points east toward Chinggis Khaan’s birthplace, marking the legendary site where he is said to have found his golden whip. The statue rests atop a circular, 32-foot-high base with 36 columns symbolizing the great khans, and the complex includes a museum of Bronze Age and Mongol Empire artifacts. As both a powerful emblem of national pride and a popular destination, the statue underscores Mongolia’s deep veneration for its founding father.

11:30am – 1:00pm Naadam Demonstration

The delegation will attend an abridged Naadam demonstration within Terelj National Park. Inscribed on the UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity list in 2010, Naadam is Mongolia’s largest and most celebrated traditional festival, held every July to mark the anniversary of the Mongolian Revolution of 1921. Often called the “Three Manly Games” festival, Naadam showcases the country’s nomadic heritage through wrestling, horse racing, and archery, which are considered the core sports of Mongolian culture.

The delegation will learn how Naadam is core to Mongolian culture and political identity and the country’s most fundamental cultural celebration of national pride, history, and identity, blending ancient nomadic traditions with modern patriotism.

Location: Mongol Culture Park, Terelj National Park

1:00pm – 1:15pm Transit via hired car to Nomadic Herder Family

1:15pm – 1:45pm Meeting with Nomadic Herder Family and Discussion on Urban Migration Challenges

The delegation will meet with a nomadic herder family to learn about Mongolia’s most respected living tradition, which has endured for centuries across the country’s vast steppes and rugged landscapes. The delegation will learn how these families rely on raising livestock—such as sheep, goats, horses, and yaks—for food, income, and cultural identity, moving seasonally in search of fresh pasture and water. Living in portable felt dwellings called gers, they maintain a deep connection to nature and traditional knowledge passed down through generations.

While herding remains a vital part of Mongolia’s rural economy and national identity, the delegation will additionally learn how modern nomadic life faces growing challenges from extreme weather, frequent dzuds (harsh winters), land degradation, and urban migration. The Government of Mongolia and the UN are working to address the challenges faced by nomadic Mongolian populations. Nomadic herders are especially vulnerable to harsh climate events like dzuds, so UN agencies such as UNDP and FAO are helping implement early warning systems and promote sustainable herding practices. To improve education and health services in remote areas, UNICEF and UNESCO work with the Mongolian government to provide mobile schools, distance learning tools, and mobile clinics. The UN also aids in diversifying income sources for herder families through initiatives in value-added livestock production, eco-tourism, and rural entrepreneurship. Through this conversation the delegation will learn how the UN plays a vital role in helping Mongolia build a more sustainable and inclusive future for its nomadic communities.

6:00pm – 8:00pm Working Dinner with Jaap van Hierden, UN Resident Coordinator in Mongolia

The delegation will attend a working dinner with Jaap van Hierden, UN Resident Coordinator in Mongolia to discuss how the UN is working to protect Mongolia’s unique cultural heritage by supporting efforts to preserve traditional knowledge, practices, and historical sites that are central to the country’s identity—including efforts to preserve and promote khöömei (traditional Mongolian throat singing), which has been recognized by UNESCO as Intangible Cultural Heritage.

8:00pm – 9:00pm Khöömei Demonstration and Discussion on Traditional Mongolian Practices

Following dinner, the delegation will attend a khöömei demonstration and discussion to learn how Mongolian throat singing plays a vital role in the country’s spirituality, storytelling, and culture. Khöömei is a unique and ancient vocal tradition in which a singer produces two or more pitches simultaneously, creating an otherworldly, harmonic sound that mimics the natural world.

Practiced mainly in the western regions of Mongolia, especially among herders in Khovd and Bayan-Ölgii, throat singing reflects a deep connection to the land, imitating sounds like wind, flowing rivers, or the call of animals. It is typically passed down through generations, preserving both musical skill and cultural knowledge. Khöömei stands as a symbol of national pride and was recognized by UNESCO as Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity in 2010.

Through this demonstration and discussion, the delegation will learn how the UN is helping the Government of Mongolia protect and preserve traditional knowledge, practices, and historical understanding, which are fundamental to Mongolian national political and social identity.

11:00am – 12:00pm Visit to Nalaikh District, 2nd Khoroo Clinic and Malnutrition Briefing by Evariste Kouassi-Komlan, UNICEF Country Representative and UNICEF Nutrition Officer

The delegation will visit a small municipal health clinic to observe outpatient treatment for severe acute malnutrition via Ready-to-Use Therapeutic Food (RUTF), as well as other vital healthcare efforts.

The delegation will learn how Mongolia faces several pressing nutrition challenges, especially as the country undergoes rapid urbanization and lifestyle changes. Undernutrition remains a concern in rural and herder communities, where access to diverse foods, clean water, and health services is limited. Micronutrient deficiencies, particularly in iron, vitamin A, and iodine, are also widespread, impacting child growth and development. Traditional Mongolian diets, based heavily on meat and dairy, often lack fruits and vegetables, contributing to imbalanced nutrition.

The double burden of malnutrition—where both undernutrition and overnutrition coexist—poses a growing public health risk. In response, the Mongolian government and international partners, including the UN, are working to improve nutrition education, strengthen school meal programs, and promote healthier, more balanced diets across all age groups.

First opened in 2018 in Bayan-Ulgii and Khövsgöl aimags with Swiss and local funding, OSSCs offer shelter, healthcare, legal advice, psychological counseling, and protection assistance under one roof. Today, Mongolia has expanded to 17 centers, including recent additions in Ulaanbaatar’s Chingeltei and Sukhbaatar districts. Established in 1960, the MNCCI plays a key role in fostering economic development by facilitating trade, investment, and cooperation between local and international enterprises. It provides a wide range of services, including business matchmaking, policy advocacy, certification, arbitration, and training programs. As a bridge between the government and the private sector, the MNCCI actively contributes to the creation of a favorable business environment and works to strengthen Mongolia’s presence in the global market.

dedicated to improving maternal and newborn care. In 2017, NCMCH’s groundbreaking Telemedicine Project, supported by UNFPA and the Government of Luxembourg, connected provincial hospitals with specialists at NCMCH, enabling real-time obstetric consultations and training that helped reduce maternal mortality by two-thirds.

More recently, in February 2025, UNFPA and the Government of Luxembourg jointly provided advanced tools and practical training for midwives aimed at strengthening reproductive health services nationwide and a sustained commitment to preventable maternal and perinatal mortality elimination.
