The Honorable Brad Knott
U.S. House of Representatives
1239 Longworth House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Colleague:

Pursuant to House Rule 25, clause 5(d)(2), the Committee on Ethics hereby approves your and your spouse's proposed trip to Seward and Utqiagvik, Alaska, scheduled for August 23 to 28, 2026, sponsored by Aspen Institute, Inc.

You must complete a Member/Officer Post-Travel Disclosure Form and file it, together with a Sponsor Post-Travel Disclosure Form completed by the trip sponsor, with the Clerk of the House within 15 days after your return from travel. As part of that filing, you are also required to attach a copy of this letter and both the Traveler and Primary Trip Sponsor Forms (including attachments) you previously submitted to the Committee in seeking pre-approval for this trip. You must also report all travel expenses totaling more than $525 from a single source on the "Travel" schedule of your annual Financial Disclosure Statement covering this calendar year. Finally, Travel Regulation § 404(d) also requires you to keep a copy of all request forms and supporting information provided to the Committee for three subsequent Congresses from the date of travel.

If you have any further questions, please contact the Committee's Office of Advice and Education at extension 5-7103.

Sincerely,

Michael Guest
Chairman

Question 12:

Aspen Institute's Congressional Program provides nonpartisan educational forums for members of Congress on public policy issues and organizes the conferences along with selecting members. This conference will discuss a range of pressing topics: the forces driving electricity costs higher and strategies to address them for households and businesses; the infrastructure investments and regulatory reforms required to ensure grid reliability amid severe weather and rapid demand growth; the evolving role of natural gas and LNG in domestic affordability and global energy security; how federal and state policymakers can better coordinate to accelerate energy infrastructure deployment; and the particular challenges facing rural, remote, and Arctic communities where affordability and reliability carry direct consequences for daily life. Members will also learn how energy challenges manifest uniquely in Alaska, a state whose economy and communities are deeply intertwined with energy production and consumption. The Aspen Institute has a special interest in Energy Policy as signified by having an Energy and Environment Program within the Institute. Aspen Institute Congressional Program is paying for airfare, ground transportation, other transportation, meals and incidentals, and lodging.

Question 18: Total expenses for each participant:

6 – 7:30 PM: Pre-Dinner Remarks

Indigenous Life and Leadership in Alaska

Alaska Native peoples have inhabited this land for thousands of years and today play a central role in the state's economy, governance, and decisions about land and resources. This conversation will introduce Members to the perspectives and priorities of Alaska Native leadership, including the role of Alaska Native corporations, tribal governance, subsistence traditions, and the partnerships between indigenous communities and federal, state, and private actors in shaping Alaska's future.

Speaker: Willie Hensley, former AK State Legislator

7:30 – 9 PM: Working Dinner

Seating is arranged to expose participants to a diverse range of views and provide the opportunity for a meaningful exchange of ideas. Scholars and lawmakers are rotated daily.

MONDAY, August 24

Overnight at Windsong Lodge - Seward

8 – 8:45 AM: Breakfast

9 – 9:15 AM: Introduction and Framework of the Conference

This conference is organized into roundtable conversations, working lunches, site visits, pre-dinner remarks and working dinners. This segment will highlight how the conference will be conducted, how those with questions will be recognized and how responses will be timed to allow for as much engagement as possible.

Speaker:

Charlie Dent, Executive Director and Vice President, Aspen Institute Congressional Program

9:15 – 10:45 AM: Roundtable Discussion

The Rising Stakes – Demand, Competition, and the New Energy Build-Out

For the first time in decades, U.S. electricity demand is growing — and growing fast. Data centers, manufacturing reshoring, federal incentives for domestic production, and the electrification of transport and buildings are converging to create load growth that the system was not planned for. But this is not just an infrastructure challenge. The countries that can deliver abundant, affordable, reliable power will attract the industries that define the next economic era — AI, advanced manufacturing, semiconductors. The question of who becomes an “electrostate” is as consequential as the question of who controlled oil in the 20th century, and the United States faces serious competition from China on multiple fronts: grid buildout speed, clean energy manufacturing, critical mineral supply chains, and the willingness to deploy industrial policy at scale. This session lays out what is at stake — the scale and geography of new demand, the competitive landscape, and the gap between what the U.S. energy system is being asked to do and what it can currently deliver.

Speakers:

Amos Hochstein, Former United States Assistant Secretary of State for Energy Resources & Managing Partner, TWG Global

Sec. Ernest Moniz, Former US Secretary of Energy, Founder and Chief Executive Officer, Energy Futures Initiative

Gretchen Watkins, former President, Shell USA

10:45 – 11 AM: Break

11 AM – 12:30 PM: Roundtable Discussion

Future of U.S. Energy Security: Natural Gas, Oil, LNG, and Emerging Technologies

Natural gas remains central to the U.S. energy system, providing affordable baseload electricity at home and serving as a significant export commodity abroad. Oil continues to play a defining role in the American economy and in global markets. Speakers will address the future of domestic production and infrastructure, the role of LNG in global markets and geopolitical strategy, and the policy considerations surrounding continued development of domestic supply.

Speakers:

Jason Bordoff, Founding Director, Center on Global Energy Policy, Columbia University

Bob McNally, Founder & President, Rapidan Energy

12:30 – 1:15 PM: Working Lunch

Discussion continues between members of Congress and scholars on U.S. Energy Security. Seating will be arranged to create conversation centered around Amos Hochstein, Sec. Ernest Moniz, Gretchen Watkins, Jason Bordoff, and Bob McNally to dive deeper into conversations discussed at the roundtables earlier.

2 – 3:30 PM: Exit Glacier Tour

As one of the most accessible glaciers in Alaska, Exit Glacier has been retreating over the past century due to rising global temperatures. Along the trail, signs mark where the glacier was located in previous years, making it easy to observe how much it has changed over time. This helps visitors understand the long-term impact of environmental changes on glaciers and ecosystems.

4:45 – 5:40 PM: Pre-Dinner Remarks

Natural Resources in Alaska

Alaska's identity, economy, and place in the national energy conversation are inseparable from the scale of its natural resources. This conversation will introduce Members to Alaska's energy and mineral landscape — oil, natural gas, hydropower, timber, fisheries, and critical minerals — and the role these resources have played, and continue to play, in the life of the state and in broader American energy and economic security.

Speakers:

Dr. Gwen Holdmann, Chief Scientist, ACEP

Melissa Roberts, Executive Director, American Flood Coalition

6 – 7:45 PM: Working Dinner

Seating is arranged to expose participants to a diverse range of views and provide the opportunity for a meaningful exchange of ideas. Scholars and lawmakers are rotated daily. Discussions will focus on energy and natural resources.

TUESDAY, August 25

Overnight at Windsong Lodge

8 – 8:45 AM: Breakfast

9 – 11 AM: Roundtable Discussion

The Grid of the Future — Modernization, Interconnection, and Permitting Reform

The U.S. power system is being asked to absorb unprecedented demand growth at the very moment it confronts aging infrastructure, severe weather, and a shifting generation

mix. Meeting this moment requires action on multiple fronts simultaneously: modernizing the grid with advanced technologies, clearing the interconnection queue that has become a bottleneck for new generation, reforming transmission planning and siting to enable interregional buildout, and overhauling permitting processes that add years to project timelines. This session addresses the investments, technologies, and regulatory reforms needed to build the grid the country needs — covering grid-enhancing technologies, interconnection and queue reform, transmission siting, natural gas pipeline permitting, and the federal-state dynamic in energy infrastructure governance.

Speakers:

Doug Arent, Global Fellow, Columbia University Center on Global Energy Policy

Rob Gramlich, President, Grid Strategies

Vilas Dhar, President, McGovern Foundation

11 – 11:15 AM: Break

11:15 – 1 PM: Roundtable Discussion

The Decline of Globalization & The Rise of Security in Supply Chains

The United States is an energy superpower in production but faces serious vulnerabilities in the supply chains that underpin its energy system — critical minerals, battery manufacturing, solar components, enriched uranium, and the industrial inputs required for grid buildout. China dominates many of these supply chains, and the question of how to reduce that dependence has become one of the most consequential policy debates in Washington. This session examines the supply chain landscape, the competitive dynamics with China, and the industrial policy toolkit: why, where, and how should the United States use targeted intervention to bolster certain supply chains over others? Discussion will consider what has worked (CHIPS Act), what has struggled (battery supply chains), the FORGE framework for allied mineral coordination, and the tradeoffs between speed, cost, and strategic autonomy.

Speakers:

Sec. Dave Turk, Former US Deputy Secretary of Energy

Robin Millican, Director of Research Programs and Strategic Partnerships, Columbia University

1 – 2 PM: Working Lunch

Discussion continues between members of Congress and scholars on globalization and supply chains. Seating will be arranged to create conversation centered around Sec. Dave Turk, Robin Millican, Doug Arent, Rob Gramlich, and Vilas Dhar to dive deeper into conversations discussed at the roundtables earlier.

2 – 4 PM: Discussions with Scholars

Scholars will meet with members of Congress for in-depth discussion of ideas raised in the morning sessions, including Doug Arent, Vilas Dhar, Rob Gramlich, Robin Millican, and Dave Turk.

4 – 5 PM: Pre-Dinner Remarks

The Economics of Energy – Affordability, Cost Allocation, and Who Pays

Americans are paying more for electricity, and the pressures behind those increases are multiplying — aging infrastructure, tight supply chains, higher capacity prices, and the challenge of allocating costs when a hyperscaler or chip fab lands in a utility's territory. This fireside examines the federal and state policy tools that can keep energy affordable for households and businesses: rate design, cost allocation for new interconnection, utility incentive structures that may favor capital investment over grid optimization, tax policy, and demand flexibility. The conversation will also drill into Alaska's specific affordability challenges — the cost of serving remote communities and the fiscal tradeoffs that come with energy-dependent public finances.

Speakers:

Alex Flint, Executive Officer, Alliance for Market Solutions

Clay Koplin, Chief Executive Officer, Cordova Electric Cooperative

5 – 9 PM: Working Dinner

Seating is arranged to expose participants to a diverse range of views and provide the opportunity for a meaningful exchange of ideas. Scholars and lawmakers are rotated daily. Discussions will focus on energy affordability.

WEDNESDAY, August 26

Overnight at Windsong Lodge

8 – 9:30 AM: Working Breakfast

Seating is arranged to expose participants to a diverse range of views and provide the opportunity for a meaningful exchange of ideas. Scholars and lawmakers are rotated daily.

9:30 AM – 11:30 AM: Travel from Seward to Anchorage Airport

2:02 – 4 PM: Flight from Anchorage to Utqiagvik, Alaska

4:30 – 6 PM: Welcome Remarks with Local Community Leaders

Visitors will hear from local community leaders in Utqiagvik, AK about daily challenges and what life is like on the Arctic.

6:00-7:00 PM: Arctic Circle Site Visit

Tundra Tour with Northern Voices

Visitors can see evidence of thawing permafrost, changes in vegetation, altered drainage patterns, and coastal erosion. These observations help explain how rising temperatures affect Arctic ecosystems and contribute to global environmental changes.

7 – 9 PM: Working Dinner

Seating is arranged to expose participants to a diverse range of views and provide the opportunity for a meaningful exchange of ideas. Scholars and lawmakers are rotated daily. Discussions will focus on Arctic security.

THURSDAY, August 27

Overnight at Top of the World Hotel

7:30 – 8:30AM: Breakfast

9 – 11 AM: Roundtable Discussion

The Arctic: Energy, Climate, and Geopolitics

The Arctic is rising in strategic importance. Retreating ice is opening new shipping routes and access to energy and mineral resources, drawing sustained attention from the United States, its allies, and its competitors. This session examines how energy policy, environmental change, and national security intersect in the Arctic, including the roles of the United States, Russia, China, and Arctic allies; the implications for energy infrastructure and resource development; and the opportunities for American leadership in a region whose importance to global affairs continues to grow.

Speakers:

Amb. Mike Sfraga (ret.), Ph.D., University of Alaska Fairbanks

Heather A. Conley, Nonresident Senior Fellow, American Enterprise Institute

11 – 11:15 AM: Break

11:15 AM – 12:45 PM: Roundtable Discussion

Policy Reflections for Members of Congress

This time is set aside for members of Congress to reflect on what they have learned during the conference and discuss their views on implications for U.S. policy. Drawing on the full range of conversations throughout the week, members will seek to identify for each other the most promising takeaways for the United States policy process, with a special focus on opportunities for bipartisan cooperation. This is a members-only conversation.

12:45 – 1:15 PM: Working Lunch

Discussion continues between members of Congress and scholars on Arctic policy. Seating will be arranged to create conversation centered around Amb. Mike Sfraga and Heather Conley to dive deeper into conversations discussed at the roundtables earlier.

1:30 – 3:30 PM: Educational Site Visits on Native Communities in Utqiagvik

Visiting community facilities and local energy infrastructure for participants to learn how energy is generated, delivered, and used in a community where fuel must often be transported over long distances. This highlights the high cost of energy in remote Arctic communities and the importance of energy efficiency in reducing household expenses and improving quality of life.

10:30 PM – 12:22 AM: Flight from Utqiagvik to Anchorage, Alaska

FRIDAY, August 28

1:29 AM : Participants begin to depart for home districts

CONGRESSIONAL PROGRAM
aspen institute

The Honorable Brad Knott

U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515-0306

Dear Representative Knott,

I would like to invite you and Joanna to our bipartisan, bicameral congressional conference on Powering America: Affordability and Reliability in a New Energy Era in Seward and Utqiagvik (Barrow), Alaska, August 23-28, 2026, including travel dates. Please get back to us with interest to attend the conference by COB Friday, June 5, 2026. These conference spots fill up quickly due to heavy interest, so we may have to move you to a waitlist if we don't hear back in time. This invitation does not guarantee your participation in the conference.

Through roundtable sessions, site visits, and a visit to the North Slope in the Arctic, Members of Congress will discuss a range of pressing topics: the forces driving electricity costs higher and strategies to address them for households and businesses; the infrastructure investments and regulatory reforms required to ensure grid reliability amid severe weather and rapid demand growth; the evolving role of natural gas and LNG in domestic affordability and global energy security; how federal and state policymakers can better coordinate to accelerate energy infrastructure deployment; and the particular challenges facing rural, remote, and Arctic communities where affordability and reliability carry direct consequences for daily life. Members will also learn how energy challenges manifest uniquely in Alaska, a state whose economy and communities are deeply intertwined with energy production and consumption, Conference attendance is by invitation only. No outside observers, no lobbyists, no congressional staff, and no media are allowed to participate. All conference sessions are off-the-record. No foreign governments are accepted to fund the Aspen Institute Congressional Program. As required by the Senate and House ethics rules, we will provide congressional participants with completed and signed ethics private sponsor forms.

Travel expenses, including business class airfare, meals, and lodging will be paid for by the Aspen Institute; no expenses for entertainment or recreation are paid for in compliance with ethics rules.

The Congressional Program is part of the Aspen Institute, Inc. a nonprofit organization founded in 1949. The Congressional Program was created to promote leadership on public policy by bringing legislators together from both political parties with internationally renowned scholars for high level discussions and analysis. Since our program's inception, more than 639 members of Congress have participated in our 167 domestic and international conferences.

We hope you can join us for this important conference.

Sincerely,

Charlie Dent
