2433 Rayburn House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Mr. Quintyne:

Pursuant to House Rule 25, clause 5(d)(2), the Committee on Ethics hereby approves your proposed trip to Poland,<sup>1</sup> scheduled for August 17 to 24, 2019, sponsored by The Auschwitz Institute for Peace and Reconciliation (AIPR).

You must complete an Employee Post-Travel Disclosure Form (which your employing Member must also sign) and file it, together with a Sponsor Post-Travel Disclosure Form completed by the trip sponsor, with the Clerk of the House within 15 days after your return from travel. As part of that filing, you are also required to attach a copy of this letter and both the Traveler and Primary Trip Sponsor Forms (including attachments) you previously submitted to the Committee in seeking pre-approval for this trip. If you are required to file an annual Financial Disclosure Statement, you must also report all travel expenses totaling more than $390 from a single source on the "Travel" schedule of your annual Financial Disclosure Statement covering this calendar year. Finally, Travel Regulation § 404(d) also requires you to keep a copy of all request forms and supporting information provided to the Committee for three subsequent Congresses from the date of travel.

Because the trip may involve meetings with foreign government representatives, we note that House employees may accept, under the Foreign Gifts and Decorations Act (FGDA), gifts "of minimal value [currently $390] tendered as a souvenir or mark of courtesy" by a foreign government. Any tangible gifts valued in excess of minimal value received from a foreign government must, within 60 days of acceptance, be disclosed on a Form for Disclosing Gifts from Foreign Governments and either turned over to the Clerk of the House, or, with the written approval of the Committee, retained for official use.

<sup>1</sup> Please be aware that the Committee's review of the proposed trip does not extend to either the security situation in the destination country or security related to foreign travel in general. We recommend you contact the Sergeant at Arms (SAA) for a safety and security briefing prior to your departure. SAA may be reached at (202) 226-2044 or ohsstaff@mail.house.gov. House travelers should also register for the U.S. State Department's Smart Traveler Enrollment Program at <https://step.state.gov>.

If you have any further questions, please contact the Committee's Office of Advice and Education at extension 5-7103.

Primary Sponsor Travel Form - Addendum

About the Auschwitz Institute & the Raphael Lemkin Seminar for the Promotion and Protection of Civil and Human Rights, U.S. Edition:

The Auschwitz Institute for Peace and Reconciliation (AIPR) is a nongovernmental organization that provides education, training, and technical assistance to States to develop and improve upon their atrocity prevention policy, incorporating a whole of government approach. With offices in New York - USA, Buenos Aires - Argentina, Kampala - Uganda, Bucharest - Romania and Oswiecim - Poland, AIPR is building a worldwide community of policymakers and practitioners with the tools and the commitment to prevent atrocity at home and abroad.

AIPR shares a national, and global, concern that the increasingly hostile environment of exclusion and social fragmentation in the U.S. is heightening the risk, and occurrence, of identity-based marginalization and violence. As history shows us, such threats to civil and human rights can, if unchecked, become part of an escalating process of destruction that may lead to identity-based mass atrocity. We wish to use the lessons learned from the field of atrocity prevention to help build capacity in our government partners to detect relevant risk factors for civil and human rights abuses, identify appropriate response tools to promote and protect those rights, and recognize the best practices to foster resiliency in targeted communities.

This course is offered to U.S. Government officials, congressional staffers and civil rights practitioners who are engaging in atrocity prevention through the implementation of rule of law, policymaking, program development and advocacy. The Seminar welcomes roughly 20 participants, as well as an international teaching team, including prominent academics, government officials and other leading experts in the fields of atrocity prevention and civil and human rights protection.

The seminar, held on site of the former German Nazi concentration and death camps at Auschwitz, utilizes the "power of place" to bring a heightened degree of awareness and sensitivity to previous genocides and the lessons from our past failures. At the same time, the seminar fosters an understanding of the responsibility of states to prevent atrocity and empowers our participants with the tools to act. Through an engaged pedagogy of small group exercises, case studies, simulations, guided discussions, and other active learning assignments, participants will develop a shared understanding of their collaborative role in preventing atrocity by promoting and protecting civil and human rights. The seminar will follow the Chatham House Rule in which participants are free to use the information received, but neither the identity nor the affiliation of the speaker(s), nor that of any other participant, may be revealed.

The goals of the seminar are:

- To introduce participants to the concepts of genocide and mass atrocity, and the processes by which these crimes occur.

- To instill in participants the values of promoting and protecting civil and human rights and examine the factors which put societies at risk for violating those rights.
- To emphasize the ways in which the promotion and protection of civil and human rights by government officials and civil rights practitioners plays a role in the prevention of identity-based mass atrocities.
- To apply those lessons to the challenges facing our participants today in a deeply divided society.

Congressional Staffers Invited to Participate in Seminar

The Auschwitz Institute for Peace and Reconciliation has the pleasure of inviting the following congressional staffers to its upcoming Raphael Lemkin Seminar for the Promotion and Protection of Civil and Human Rights:

Mr. Anthony Lemma, District Director, Rep. Grace Meng (NY-06)

Mr. Christopher Quintyne, Legislative Counsel, Rep. Hakeem Jeffries (NY-08)

Ms. Sandra Ung, Special Assistant, Rep. Grace Meng (NY-06)

We have invited the above staffers to this program because each of them has a portfolio focusing on issues of holocaust remembrance, civil and human rights, and/or atrocity prevention. Additionally, they are all high ranking members of their respective congressional teams, and we hope that by providing this training, they will return to their offices with an expanded skill set to push the civil and human rights agendas forward here at home. It is crucial that we have congressional support and action for addressing risk factors for atrocity crimes that we currently face in the United States, and we hope that this seminar will provide a foundational education to the staffers enabling more effective preventive efforts to take place through the legislature.

Take Home Resource: James Waller, Confronting Evil: Engaging Our Responsibility to Prevent Genocide (2016), Chapters 1-3.
Relevancy to Official Duties: This module will provide our participants with a foundational understanding of the legal concepts of genocide and other atrocity crimes, as well as an overview of what is 'atrocity prevention' as a concept and a field of practice. This module ensures that our participants have the requisite vocabulary necessary to understand all the information that will be provided to them in the training modules that follow. The content is relevant for their official duties in that they are engaging in atrocity prevention through working on issues of human and civil rights, but they may not classify it as such and therefore are not using all the tools they have at their disposal to protect and expand those rights. Those tools will be provided throughout the remainder of the week.
- 10:15-10:30 Coffee Break
- 10:30-12:00 The Holocaust: The Death of Democracy and the Rise of Nazism (1933-1939)
Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR
Reading: "Historical Overview," from Donald Niewyk and Francis Nicosia, The Columbia Guide to the Holocaust (New York: Columbia University Press, 2000), pp. 3-9.
Handout: Nazi Party Platform (1920)
Relevancy to Official Duties: This module will provide our participants with an understanding of the process by which the Holocaust was perpetrated. It is the first case study of this training curriculum that will be used by our instructional team to impart upon our participants the understanding that genocide is in fact a process that takes many years to perpetrate by its architects. Because it is a process, there are ways to recognize its signs and symptoms and the ability to prevent it from unfolding further at many stages. This module will walk the participants through the historical perpetration of the Holocaust from its early beginnings to the end result, which is Auschwitz, where they will be physically sitting. It is relevant to the work of our Staffers because they will start to recognize the parallels in the early stages of the Holocaust to the issues that we are facing today in the US. This is not to say that we will have genocide in the US, but it is important for them to recognize that we do have risk factors that must be addressed and their work on human and civil rights issues may be framed as atrocity prevention for this reason.

12:15-13:00 Lunch Break – Imperial Hotel

13:15-16:15 Guided Study Visit: Auschwitz I (smaller groups)

Guides from Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum

Reading: "Auschwitz," from Adrian Weale's Army of Evil: A History of the SS (New York: Penguin, 2010), pp. 366-397

Relevancy to Official Duties:

- Physically walking through the camp of Auschwitz I (the concentration camp of the Auschwitz Complex) imparts a gravity to the importance of working on atrocity prevention that few other sites can convey. This tour consists of the Auschwitz I concentration camp main exhibition, including converted barracks containing exhibits of shoes, suitcases, clothes and other personal effects of the murdered victims of the camps. The exhibition also includes a full historical description of the Nazi concentration and extermination camp system throughout Europe, deportation statistics and information and other descriptions of how the Holocaust was physically perpetrated by the Nazi regime along with visual aides. The tour additionally entails a walk through of the original gas chamber at Auschwitz I and an exhibit about how the killing was perpetrated using the gas chambers and crematoria system at the camps.
- Their tour guide will be one of the Museum's most seasoned guides with at least 7 years of experience in conducting tours of the camps. Our guides hold scholarly degrees as high as the PhD level in Holocaust and Genocide Studies, as well as other related fields. Their knowledge is extensive on this topic, and they will be able to answer any questions our participants pose on the Holocaust and WWII.
- Our congressional staffers are engaging in efforts to prevent civil and human rights abuses here at home in the U.S. (the early warning signs of atrocity) and it is imperative that they boost their efforts in this time of rising risk factors for atrocity crimes. Touring Auschwitz I, one of the most horrific sites of genocide in our human history, will provide them with a first person view of what happens when we do not work to prevent. The Holocaust started with many of the risk factors that we currently see in the U.S. and so it is imperative that they continue to focus on promoting and protecting human and civil rights through the various legislative initiatives and programs in their districts they are engaging in and may engage in in the future.

- 16:30 Bus Departs Auschwitz I for Dialogue Centre
- 18:45 Bus Departs Dialogue Centre for Stara Poczta Restaurant
- 19:00 Dinner at Stara Poczta Restaurant in Galicja Hotel
- 21:00 Bus Returns to Dialogue Centre

Tuesday, August 20 – Process and Place

- 7:00 Breakfast
- 7:45 Bus Departs Dialogue Centre for Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum Conference Room (Block 23)
- 8:15-9:45 The Holocaust: The Final Solution as Process (1939-1945)
Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR
Reading: "Historical Overview," from Donald Niewyk and Francis Nicosia, (New York, NY: Columbia University Press, 2000) The Columbia Guide to the Holocaust, pp. 9-41.
Relevancy to Official Duties: This module will provide our participants with an understanding of the broader field of genocide studies and its methodology for studying this human phenomenon as a process. It is a continuation of the first day's module on the topic, but focuses much more on the classified stages of genocide as academic theory and the application of this theory to the real world events of the Holocaust. This again becomes relevant to our Staffers' abilities to recognize risk patterns for atrocity crimes against vulnerable groups in their constituencies they may or may not be working with yet concerning human and civil rights protection. We hope they will begin to apply this lens to their communities when they return home.
- 9:45-10:00 Coffee Break
- 10:00-11:15 Between Memory, Commemoration and the Authentic Site: Auschwitz as a Reference Point for Contemporary Societies
Dr. Alicja Bialecka, Representative for the New Main Exhibition, Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum
Reading: Selections from The Holocaust: Voices of Scholars, edited by Jolanta Ambrosewic-Jacobs (Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum, 2009).

Relevancy to Official Duties: This module will provide our participants with a deeper understanding of how the Auschwitz-Birkenau Museum has memorialized and continues its commemoration of the Holocaust. The politics of this is extremely complex because the site itself means different things to different victim groups. How to tell their stories of what happened to them on this site is an immense challenge and taking time to process the work of the Museum will help provide our Staffers with the opportunity to think about the ways they engage with and memorialize groups in their communities who may be victims of atrocities, such as diaspora and immigrant communities, the Native American community and the African American community to name a few.

- 11:15-11:45 Background Briefing: Auschwitz II-Birkenau
Dr. Piotr Setkiewicz, Chief Historian, Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum
Relevancy to Official Duties: This module will provide our participants with an explanation of what they are going to experience on the tour of Birkenau in the afternoon. This briefing gives a full history of how the camp was built, staffed, run and subsequently partly destroyed by the Nazis shortly before liberation. Without this briefing, the tour would not be as impactful for our participants.
- 11:45 Bus Returns to Dialogue Centre
- 12:00-12:45 Lunch Break – Dialogue Centre
- 12:45 Bus Departs from Dialogue Centre to Auschwitz II-Birkenau
- 13:00-16:15 Guided Study Visit: Auschwitz II-Birkenau (smaller groups)
Reading: Selection from Primo Levi's If This Is a Man (Survival in Auschwitz), translated by Stuart Woolf (1959), pp. 19-27.
Relevancy to Official Duties:
- This walking tour will encompass Auschwitz II-Birkenau, the death camp of the Auschwitz complex. It is the largest graveyard in the world, where 1.5 million people, mostly Jews, were murdered during the years of 1942 – 1945. Our participants will physically walk in the footsteps of the victims from their arrival to the camp when they stepped off the train and were classified by the Nazi staff, to their entrance into the gas chamber where they were killed. The participants will thus visit the classification area, prisoner barracks and will walk along the 'path of death' until they reach the intake center where victims were stripped of their clothes and belongings, shaved and told they were going to be taking a shower to be cleaned. The tour ends at the main memorial site within the camp, which is near the remains of the destroyed gas chamber, and includes the hall with thousands of photos of victims, collected by the Nazi staff who confiscated their personal effects.

- This tour differs from Auschwitz I in that there are no 'museum exhibits'. Birkenau has been completely preserved by the Museum Staff since the day it was liberated by the Allied Forces, and thus provides a different experience to our participants from the more traditional exhibition they viewed the previous day at Auschwitz I. They will have the same guide as the previous day's tour and so they will be very comfortable in their group setting by this time.
- For our Congressional Staffers, once again they are engaging in efforts to prevent civil and human rights abuses here at home in the U.S. and it is imperative that they boost their efforts in this time of rising risk factors for atrocity crimes, so that we do not arrive at a place like Birkenau. It seems unimaginable that our current society could perpetrate such evil, but history tells us that we have before and we will again if we do not prevent. The remaining modules throughout the week will focus on expanding the toolbox our Staffers have at their disposal to contribute to prevention in the US.

16:30 – 17:00 Bus Departs Auschwitz II-Birkenau for St. Maximilian Kolbe Centre at the Franciscan Monastery in Harmež

Survivor Art Exhibit: "The Labyrinth" by Marian Kolodziej

<https://stv.tv/news/features/1399601-auschwitz-artist-survivor-paints-horror-of-nazi-death-camp/>

This site visit is relevant to the participants (congressional staffers and other USG officials) in the following ways:

- The exhibition is of the extensive hand drawn artworks of a Polish Jewish survivor of Auschwitz. The drawings depict the extreme horror and trauma of his experience and that of the other prisoners. The drawings were done from 1993, after he suffered a stroke, until his death in 2009.
- The exhibition gives our participants the ability to see Auschwitz, and the experience of atrocity, through the eyes of a single survivor of the camps. It provides a deeper understanding of the legacy of trauma that lives on for decades after the atrocity crimes take place and yet even more reason to work steadfastly towards prevention. The cost is just too great if we do not prevent, and this exhibition allows our participants to see and feel a survivor's pain, driving home this understanding of the need to act now through their work on civil and human rights protection.

17:15 Bus Returns to Dialogue Centre

18:00 Dinner – Dialogue Centre

19:00 – 20:00 Group Debriefing of Auschwitz Experience
Dialogue Centre – 3rd Floor Meeting Room

Facilitator: Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR

Reading: Orlando Crowcroft, "Did Poland Take Part in the Holocaust? New Claims Contradict Law That Makes It Illegal to Blame the Country," Newsweek (April 26, 2018).

Relevancy to Official Duties: We have found over the years of conducting these trainings that if we do not create time in the agenda for our participants to share their emotions and their experiential reaction to what they have witnessed over these first two days, they run the risk of being so overwhelmed and upset that they shutdown and become unable to engage in the learning process for the remainder of the training. We therefore conduct this informal debriefing to give them the opportunity to voice some of what they are feeling and begin the effort of processing their experience together. It helps immensely in ensuring that they are open and focused for the learning that will take place throughout the rest of the week.

Wednesday, August 21 – Identity-Based Marginalization and Violence

7:30 Breakfast – Dialogue Centre

8:30-9:00 Welcome to the Centre for Dialogue and Prayer
Ms. Gosia Waligora, Officer for Polish Affairs, AIPR

9:00-10:30 Identity in Deeply Divided Societies
Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR
Reading: "The Characteristics of Deeply Divided Societies," from Adrian Guelke, Politics in Deeply Divided Societies (2012), pp. 13-32.
Relevancy to Official Duties: This module will provide our participants with an understanding of the politics of identity in a society that suffers from polarization and social division across many aspects of that society. It is important to recognize what identity means to both the victims and the perpetrators of atrocity crimes, and how identity plays a role in the stages of those crimes. The module then provides our participants with further tools to identify fissures in society that may lead to atrocities down the road. This is relevant to our Staffers' official duties because they are tackling issues in the US concerning immigrant rights, educational disparities among marginalized groups, women and children's rights, policing of vulnerable groups and other issue areas where identity plays a key role in the life experience of a person here in the US.

10:30-10:45 Coffee Break

10:45-12:15 Exercise: Understanding Personal and Social Identities
Mr. Vahidin Omanovic, Center for Peacebuilding (Sanski Most, BiH)
Relevancy to Official Duties: This module includes an exercise where our participants are each asked to write down six of their most important identities.

These identities could be sister, brother, Congressional Staffer, activist, wife, etc., but they must be the six identities each participant feels is most crucial to their understanding of self. Then Mr. Omanovic will begin asking the participants to cross out the 'less important' identities until they are left with their one most crucial identity. The process of crossing out identities is extremely difficult for the participants – think about choosing between wife and mother for example – and they often feel angry about having to choose and get the sense that they are being denied their identity. This is exactly how a victim of atrocity feels when a perpetrator denies them all of their identities except for one – Jew, Rohingya, immigrant, etc. To feel this pain is to then become motivated to prevent it from happening by engaging in work to protect and promote the civil and human rights of their constituencies.

12:15-13:00 Lunch Break – Dialogue Centre

13:15-15:00 Becoming Evil: The Psychology of How Ordinary People Commit Atrocities

Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR

Readings: (a) James Waller, "The Ordinarity of Extraordinary Evil: The Making of Perpetrators of Genocide and Mass Killing," from Olaf Jensen and Claus-Christian W. Szejnmann (eds.), Ordinary People as Mass Murderers: Perpetrators in Comparative Perspective (UK: Palgrave Macmillan, 2008), pp. 145-164 and (b) excerpt from Jean Hatzfeld's Machete Season: The Killers in Rwanda Speak (New York: Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 2003), pp. 21-27, 36-40.
Handout: The Interrogation of Erna Petri (19 September, 1961).

Relevancy to Official Duties: This module provides our participants with an understanding of how an ordinary person such as you or I becomes capable of committing extraordinary evil. Dr. Waller focuses on the process by which a friend, community leader and neighbor becomes a rank and file killer during the Rwandan Genocide. The goal of this module is to ensure that our participants become fully aware of how susceptible we all are as human beings to becoming killers under the right circumstances. It is thus important to know what those circumstances are so that we have a hope of preventing them, and we prevent them through many of the legislative initiatives and programs that our Staffers are working on or could be working on in the near future.

15:00-15:15 Coffee Break

15:15-16:45 Protection Approaches: Prevention of Identity-Based Marginalization and Violence

Dr. Kate Ferguson, Co-Executive Director, Head of Research and Policy, Protection Approaches (UK)

Reading: Protection Approaches, "A Gathering Storm: Assessing Risks of Identity-Based Violence in Britain" (2019).

Relevancy to Official Duties: In developed societies such as the US and the UK, early warning signs of the process of atrocity often begin with individual acts of human and civil rights abuse, as well as identity-based violence and marginalization of vulnerable groups. These groups may include religious communities, certain immigrant or diaspora communities, as well as racial and ethnic groups. This module will provide an overview of how such groups become marginalized in a society and the various policy tools and preventive mechanisms that our Staffers and other participants can employ to build spaces for inclusion. We hope that our Staffers will then incorporate some of these tools and policy directives into their existing efforts concerning civil and human rights protection and advocacy.

19:30 Pub Dinner – La Rossa Restaurant

8:30-8:45 Upstream Atrocity Prevention: Risk Factors in Deeply Divided Societies

Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR

Handout: “Risk Factors Summary”

Take Home Resource: James Waller, Confronting Evil: Engaging Our Responsibility to Prevent Genocide (2016), Chapter 4.

Relevancy to Official Duties: This brief module is to give our participants a foundational understanding and overview of early risk factors for atrocity crimes. It is meant to be an introduction for the case studies coming up next in the agenda.

8:45-10:15 Case Study: Representation of Native American Experiences in US History

Mr. Kerri Malloy, Native American Studies, Humboldt State University

Reading: Walter R. Echo-Hawk, “A Context for Understanding Native American Issues” (2010).

Relevancy to Official Duties: Our Staffers are engaging on issue areas in their work that involve the civil and human rights of the Native American community in their constituencies through working on topics such as education, policing, political access and women’s and children’s rights. It is important for them to have a deeper understanding of not only the historical atrocities that were committed against this community, but the continuing oppression and marginalization that they face in order to develop proper policies and programming to heal wounds and build inclusion. This module will provide the knowledge and tools to start engaging in this work.

- 10:15-10:30 Coffee Break
- 10:30-12:00 Case Study: Representation of African American Experiences in US History
Ms. Dina Bailey, Director of Methodology and Practice, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience
Reading: Maria Krysan, "Prejudice, Politics, and Public Opinion: Understanding the Sources of Racial Policy Attitude," Annual Review of Sociology (2000), 135-168.
Relevancy to Official Duties: Similarly to the previous module, the African American community in the US continues to experience state-sponsored discrimination, marginalization, oppression and in some cases atrocity. Our society on the whole may be working towards reconciliation, social inclusion and justice for victims, but we continue to face grave challenges that present a heightened degree of risk for atrocity crimes against this community. Our Staffers are currently engaged in many initiatives to address these risks, but they are not framed as atrocity prevention programs and therefore do not use some of the mechanisms and tools from this field that could prove more effective than existing approaches. This module will provide them with this expanded toolbox for their work with this community.
- 12:00-12:45 Lunch Break – Dialogue Centre
- 13:00-13:15 Midstream Atrocity Prevention: Responding to Attacks on Civil and Human Rights
Handout: "Compartments of Preventive Response Tools"
Take Home Resource: James Waller, Confronting Evil: Engaging Our Responsibility to Prevent Genocide (2016), Chapter 5.
Relevancy to Official Duties: This brief module is to give our participants a foundational understanding and overview of response tools and crisis management mechanisms for atrocity crimes that are ongoing. It is meant to be an introduction for the case study coming up next in the agenda.
- 13:15-14:45 Case Study: 2017 Hate Crime Statistics Report
Ms. Nakia Ellis, Intelligence Analyst, Public Corruption, FBI Civil Rights Intelligence Unit
Reading: 2017 Hate Crime Statistics Report
Relevancy to Official Duties: This module will provide participants with an overview of the federal statute for hate crimes, defining such crimes in legal terms. It will also provide participants with the ability to identify hate crimes in their communities against victims of vulnerable groups. Finally the module will provide a statistical analysis of patterns of perpetration in terms of geographic locations relevant to our participants and the types of victims most targeted. Our Staffers are currently engaging in policy efforts and programming concerning this area of risk for members of their community and so they must have the most accurate and up to date knowledge of this reporting by the FBI.

14:45-15:00 Coffee Break

15:00-15:15 Downstream Atrocity Prevention: Rebuilding Deeply Divided Societies
Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR
Take Home Resource: James Waller, Confronting Evil: Engaging Our Responsibility to Prevent Genocide (2016), Chapter 6 and Conclusion.
Relevancy to Official Duties: This brief module is to give our participants a foundational understanding and overview of response tools and transitional justice mechanisms for atrocity crimes that have been perpetrated in the past and must be prevented from happening again in the future. It is meant to be an introduction for the module coming up next in the agenda.

15:15-16:45 Trauma and Mental Health Legacies of Identity-Based Marginalization and Violence
Prof. Peter McBride, Group Chief Executive, Inspire (Northern Ireland)
Reading: "The Scale of Conflict-Related Trauma in Northern Ireland" (2018).
Relevancy to Official Duties: There are many groups in US society that have experienced long-term marginalization, discrimination and violence. The result is a collective trauma that must be understood by any actor who is working towards healing, reconciliation and prevention of further victimization. Given that our Staffers are working on issues concerning the civil and human rights of members of these groups in the US, and particularly in a localized fashion in their districts, they must have an understanding of this collective trauma and how that affects whether a policy initiative or program will be successful in producing preventive outcomes.

16:45-17:00 Wrap-Up and Closing Announcements

Friday, August 23 – Genocide and Atrocity Prevention in Action

8:30-10:30 Capstone Simulation: Promoting and Protecting Civil and Human Rights in the US
Facilitators: Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR and Dr. Tibi Galis, Executive Director, AIPR

10:30-11:30 Simulation Debriefing

Relevancy of Capstone to Official Duties: This simulation exercise and debriefing entails each of our participants being assigned a role or job in the context of a rising crisis of atrocity in the US. Our Staffers will be given a role that is relevant to their actual position in Congress and their task will be to apply the skills they've acquired throughout the week along with the experience they brought to the seminar to develop a preventive approach to this set of risks with their participant colleagues. We hope that it will give them a strong sense of how to implement this work when they get back home to their offices, as the risks they will be addressing are being experienced in the US right now.

- 11:30-12:15 Lunch Break – Dialogue Centre
- 12:30-14:00 The Way Forward: Lessons Learned and Next Steps
Facilitators: Dr. Tibi Galis, Executive Director, AIPR, Ms. Samantha Capicotto, Director of Policy and Planning, AIPR, and Mr. Jack Mayerhofer, Chief of Staff, AIPR
- 14:00-14:15 Coffee Break
- 14:15-15:00 Seminar Wrap-Up, Introduction to Alumni Network, Fellowship Program, and Group Photo
Dr. James Waller, Keene State College/AIPR, Dr. Tibi Galis, Executive Director, AIPR, Ms. Samantha Capicotto, Director of Policy and Planning, AIPR, and Mr. Jack Mayerhofer, Chief of Staff, AIPR
Relevancy to Official Duties: The Way Forward module and wrap up session are designed to provide a debrief of the entire week of training and examples of how our participants can use what they've learned to develop preventive policy initiatives, programs and other projects when they return to their homes offices. We as an organization will continue to provide support in the form of further training, education and technical assistance opportunities, and we will present these opportunities during these two sessions, along with examples of programs and initiatives alumni of other trainings have engaged in following their time with us at Auschwitz.
- 15:30 – 16:30 Private Seminar Wrap-Up with Congressional Staffers
Facilitators: Dr. Tibi Galis, Executive Director, AIPR, Ms. Samantha Capicotto, Director of Policy and Planning, AIPR, and Mr. Jack Mayerhofer, Chief of Staff, AIPR
Relevancy to Official Duties: This hour with the Staffers will be spent speaking to them specifically about the current issue areas they are working on that can be expanded upon using the atrocity prevention tools and mechanisms they acquired during the week. We'd like to use this time to already identify areas of risk in their districts that they can focus on when they return to their office and discuss actions to be taken with their Representatives. We will also share with them the specific ways in which we can continue to support their efforts in this area following this seminar.

“Human rights are universal and indivisible. Human freedom is also indivisible; if it is denied to anyone in the world, it is therefore denied, indirectly, to all people. This is why we cannot remain silent in the face of evil or violence; silence merely encourages them.”

Vaclav Havel
