This past weekend, I participated in Center Forward's Issues Conference which brought together Chiefs of Staff, Staff Directors, and Senior staff from both Member and Committee offices. I attended the program's panel discussions and breakfast sessions. The panel discussion focused on "Strengthening America's Cybersecurity Posture" which had panelists from the Dir. of Cybersecurity Services, Venable, Ankura, SentinelOne, and American Enterprise Institute (AEI). This discussion examined current cyber-threats, and issues related to cybersecurity in national security, infrastructure, and private sector. The breakout sessions facilitated dialogue and productive discussion around legislative priorities and finding bipartisan agreement on policies that stabilize the federal budget. The second panel discussion "Rethinking Global Trade and Supply Chains to Sustain Economic Growth" focused on how COVID-19 has reshaped the global economy and ways in which we think about governance and then private sector. This conference enhanced my understanding of bipartisanship and was a great way to network with and meet with other senior staff.
