HFH will speak about their its programs, including a pilot program that uses artificial intelligence to predict who's most at risk of becoming homeless, so the County can step in to offer appropriate services. They will also discuss the critical role that our federal partners in Congress and across federal agencies play in helping achieve this work, including the provision of federal Housing Choice Vouchers (HCVs) and Emergency Housing Vouchers (EHVs). Additionally, HFH will provide a tour of their Olive View Medical Center Recuperative Care Center, a 48-bed facility that provides medical oversight and case management services for highly vulnerable individuals who may be newly released from hospitals, other clinical settings, or directly from the street.
