Dear Mr. Kwon:

Pursuant to House Rule 25, clause 5(d)(2), the Committee on Ethics hereby approves your proposed trip to South Korea,¹ scheduled for September 4 to 14, 2026, sponsored by the Korean American Grassroots Conference. We note that this trip includes two days at your personal expense.

You must complete an Employee Post-Travel Disclosure Form (which your employing Member must also sign) and file it, together with a Sponsor Post-Travel Disclosure Form completed by the trip sponsor, with the Clerk of the House within 15 days after your return from travel. As part of that filing, you are also required to attach a copy of this letter and both the Traveler and Primary Trip Sponsor Forms (including attachments) you previously submitted to the Committee in seeking pre-approval for this trip. If you are required to file an annual Financial Disclosure Statement, you must also report all travel expenses totaling more than $525 from a single source on the "Travel" schedule of your annual Financial Disclosure Statement covering this calendar year. Finally, Travel Regulation § 404(d) also requires you to keep a copy of all request forms and supporting information provided to the Committee for three subsequent Congresses from the date of travel.

Because the trip may involve meetings with foreign government representatives, we note that House employees may accept, under the Foreign Gifts and Decorations Act (FGDA), gifts "of minimal value [currently $525] tendered as a souvenir or mark of courtesy" by a foreign government. Any tangible gifts valued in excess of minimal value received from a foreign government must, within 60 days of acceptance, be disclosed on a Form for Disclosing Gifts from Foreign Governments and either turned over to the Clerk of the House, or, with the written approval of the Committee, retained for official use.

¹ Please be aware that the Committee's review of the proposed trip does not extend to either the security situation in the destination country or security related to foreign travel in general. We recommend you contact the Office of House Security (OHS) for a safety and security briefing prior to your departure. OHS may be reached at (202) 226-2044 or ohsstaff@mail.house.gov. House travelers should also register for the U.S. State Department's Smart Traveler Enrollment Program at <https://step.state.gov>.

Executive Director Cover Letter

On behalf of the Korean American Grassroots Conference ("KAGC"), I respectfully submit this package in support of our request for approval of the 2026 KAGC Congressional Korea Leadership Program (CKLP)

KAGC is a national, nonpartisan 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization headquartered in Washington, D.C. Our mission is to strengthen civic participation through congressional education, leadership development, public policy engagement, and grassroots advocacy. As part of that mission, KAGC develops congressional education programs that strengthen the professional capacity of congressional staff through firsthand learning experiences and informed engagement with public institutions, policy leaders, and the Korean American community.

KAGC believes that stronger public policy begins with better-informed public servants. By investing in congressional education, KAGC seeks to strengthen the long-term relationship between Congress, the Korean American community, and one of the United States' most important democratic allies.

The delegation is funded exclusively through KAGC's general operating funds. KAGC retains sole responsibility for participant selection, educational programming, financial management, logistics, and compliance with House Rules.

KAGC respectfully requests the Committee's approval of this educational delegation. We appreciate the Committee's careful consideration of this request and its continued oversight of privately sponsored congressional travel.

Respectfully,

Wonseok Song
Executive Director

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

2026 KAGC Congressional Korea Leadership Program (CKLP) Congressional Staff Educational Delegation to the Republic of Korea

The 2026 KAGC Congressional Korea Leadership Program (CKLP) is a professionally structured educational program developed and administered by the Korean American Grassroots Conference (KAGC). The program is designed to provide congressional staff with firsthand educational experiences that strengthen their understanding of democratic institutions, public policy, international affairs, economic competitiveness, and issues directly relevant to their official responsibilities.

KAGC is a national, nonpartisan 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization headquartered in Washington, D.C. Through congressional education, leadership development, public policy engagement, and grassroots advocacy, KAGC works to strengthen civic participation and foster constructive engagement between Congress and the Korean American community. The Congressional Staff Educational Delegation represents an extension of KAGC's educational mission by creating opportunities for congressional staff to engage directly with institutions and policy leaders whose work informs issues regularly considered by the United States Congress.

The delegation has been intentionally designed as a professional development program rather than a cultural exchange or observational tour. Educational activities focus on public policy, democratic governance, alliance cooperation, economic policy, advanced manufacturing, technological innovation, and legislative institutions. Throughout the program, participants will engage in structured policy discussions, institutional briefings, academic seminars, and professional exchanges with government officials, legislative professionals, scholars, journalists, diplomats, and private-sector leaders.

The Republic of Korea provides a uniquely valuable educational environment because it combines strong democratic institutions with one of the world's most advanced technology-driven economies. As one of the United States' closest treaty allies and one of its largest trading and investment partners, Korea offers congressional staff an opportunity to examine how legislation and public policy influence national security, economic development, industrial competitiveness, and technological innovation. These subjects are increasingly relevant to congressional committee work, legislative research, constituent engagement, oversight responsibilities, and policy development.

The educational itinerary includes meetings with representatives of the National Assembly of Korea, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Office of the President and National Security Office (subject to availability), the United States Embassy in Seoul, Seoul National University, and MoneyToday Media Group. Participants will also engage with major Korean companies—including Samsung Electronics, Hyundai Motor Group, LG Group, and SK Group—to examine how congressional legislation and public policy influence advanced manufacturing, semiconductor production, battery technology, supply chain resilience, workforce development, and foreign direct investment in the United States. A visit to the Korean Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) provides historical and strategic context regarding the U.S.–Republic of Korea alliance and security on the Korean Peninsula.

Participation has been intentionally limited to five congressional staff members in order to maximize educational value through direct interaction with host institutions, meaningful policy discussion, and individualized learning opportunities. Participants were selected based upon the relationship between their official congressional responsibilities and the educational objectives of the delegation. The small-group format allows for substantive engagement that would not be possible in a significantly larger delegation.

KAGC will administer all aspects of the delegation, including participant selection, educational programming, financial management, and logistical coordination. The program is funded exclusively through KAGC's unrestricted general operating funds. No corporation, foreign government, lobbying organization, trade association, or outside entity finances, directs, or controls the delegation. KAGC retains sole responsibility for the educational content, administration, and overall operation of the program.

Through this delegation, KAGC seeks to strengthen the professional knowledge of House staff by providing objective educational experiences that support informed policymaking and effective public service.

SECTION I

PURPOSE OF THE DELEGATION

The 2026 KAGC Congressional Korea Leadership Program (CKLP) has been established by the Korean American Grassroots Conference (KAGC) as a professional congressional education program designed to provide congressional staff with objective educational experiences directly relevant to their official responsibilities.

The program advances KAGC's charitable mission by strengthening congressional education, leadership development, public policy engagement, and civic participation. Through direct engagement with governmental institutions, legislative professionals, academic experts, diplomats, journalists, and private-sector leaders, participants will gain practical knowledge of policy issues that regularly come before the United States Congress.

The delegation is intended to strengthen participants' understanding of democratic governance, legislative institutions, alliance management, national security, international trade, advanced manufacturing, technological innovation, economic competitiveness, and foreign direct investment. Educational activities emphasize comparative analysis, institutional learning, and practical policy discussions that support participants' professional responsibilities within the House of Representatives.

The Republic of Korea provides a uniquely appropriate educational setting because it combines mature democratic institutions with one of the world's most advanced technology-driven economies. As one of the United States' closest treaty allies and one of its largest trading and investment partners, Korea offers valuable opportunities to examine how legislation, regulation, and public policy are implemented through government institutions, industry, academia, and civil society.

The delegation also provides participants with broader historical and institutional context for issues affecting the Korean American community. By strengthening participants' understanding of Korea's political institutions, economic development, security environment, and bilateral relationship with the United States, the program supports more informed engagement with Korean American constituents, community organizations, and policy stakeholders.

Every meeting included in the itinerary has been selected because it contributes directly to one or more educational objectives of the program. The delegation is designed to emphasize substantive policy discussion, professional exchange, and firsthand institutional learning rather than observation or cultural tourism.

KAGC maintains full responsibility for participant selection, educational programming, financial management, logistical coordination, and program administration. The delegation is funded exclusively through KAGC's unrestricted general operating funds and is conducted solely in furtherance of KAGC's educational and charitable mission.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

The Congressional Staff Educational Delegation has been developed to achieve the following educational objectives:

Objective One

Strengthen Understanding of Democratic Institutions

Provide participants with a deeper understanding of the organization, operation, and legislative processes of the Republic of Korea's democratic institutions through direct engagement with the National Assembly, legislative professionals, and public policy experts.

Objective Two

Enhance Knowledge of the U.S.–Republic of Korea Alliance

Expand participants' understanding of alliance management, regional security, diplomacy, and Indo-Pacific policy through meetings with government officials, diplomatic representatives, and national security professionals.

Objective Three

Examine Economic Policy and Industrial Competitiveness

Provide firsthand understanding of Korea's role in the global economy by examining advanced manufacturing, semiconductor production, battery technology, supply chain resilience, technological innovation, and foreign direct investment in the United States.

Objective Four

Support Professional Development

Strengthen the professional capacity of congressional staff through practical educational experiences directly relevant to legislative research, committee work, policy development, congressional operations, strategic communications, and constituent engagement.

EDUCATIONAL METHODOLOGY

The Congressional Staff Educational Delegation has been designed as a structured professional education program emphasizing firsthand learning, comparative institutional analysis, and direct engagement with subject-matter experts.

Educational activities will be conducted through a combination of policy briefings, institutional presentations, academic seminars, roundtable discussions, guided site visits, and moderated question-and-answer sessions. This instructional approach enables participants to compare governmental institutions, examine policy implementation, and engage directly with leaders responsible for developing and administering public policy.

Rather than relying exclusively on classroom instruction, the program integrates experiential learning by providing direct access to government agencies, legislative institutions, universities, diplomatic missions, media organizations, and major private-sector employers. This approach encourages substantive dialogue and allows participants to examine policy issues from multiple institutional perspectives.

Participation is intentionally limited to five congressional staff members to maximize educational value. The small-group format promotes meaningful discussion, individualized learning, and direct interaction with host institutions while providing opportunities for in-depth examination of issues directly related to congressional responsibilities.

Throughout the delegation, KAGC staff will serve exclusively in administrative and logistical roles. Their responsibilities include participant coordination, scheduling, transportation, communication with host institutions, and overall program management. Educational content will be provided by host organizations and invited subject-matter experts.

SECTION III

PARTICIPANT SELECTION STATEMENT

Participant Selection Statement

Participation in the 2026 Congressional Staff Educational Delegation to the Republic of Korea is intentionally limited to five congressional staff members in order to maximize educational value through direct engagement, substantive policy discussions, and individualized learning opportunities.

Participants were selected by KAGC based upon objective criteria directly related to the educational purposes of the delegation. Primary considerations included each participant's official congressional responsibilities, committee or office portfolio, policy expertise, leadership responsibilities, and the anticipated educational benefit of participation.

The delegation includes participants serving in both congressional committees and personal offices in order to provide a broad range of legislative and policy perspectives. The selected participants represent responsibilities in financial services, foreign affairs, legislative operations, public policy, communications, and constituent engagement—all subject areas that directly relate to the educational objectives of the delegation.

Political affiliation, party leadership, seniority, campaign involvement, or personal relationships were not considered in the participant selection process. Instead, KAGC sought to assemble a small, professionally diverse delegation whose official responsibilities would allow participants to apply the knowledge gained through the program to their ongoing work in Congress.

Participation is by invitation only. KAGC maintains sole authority over participant selection and no outside organization, corporation, foreign government, lobbying organization, trade association, or host institution has participated in or influenced the selection process.

KAGC maintains documentation supporting its participant selection process and will provide additional information to the Committee upon request.

The delegation is funded exclusively through KAGC's unrestricted general operating funds. The program is not financed through restricted grants, earmarked donations, corporate sponsorships, foreign government funding, or contributions designated for this specific delegation.

KAGC maintains exclusive responsibility and authority for:

- Participant selection
- Educational program design
- Development of the itinerary
- Selection of host institutions
- Financial management
- Program administration
- Logistical coordination
- Evaluation of educational outcomes

Organizations participating in the itinerary have been invited solely because they contribute to the educational objectives of the delegation. Their participation does not provide them with authority to select participants, determine program content, modify the itinerary, approve educational materials, or influence the administration of the delegation.

The delegation has been developed solely in furtherance of KAGC's charitable and educational mission. KAGC retains complete independence over every aspect of the program.

No outside organization exercises editorial control over the educational content or administration of the delegation.

PRIVATE SECTOR EDUCATIONAL MEETINGS STATEMENT

Educational meetings with private-sector organizations are included because they provide congressional staff with practical understanding of how federal legislation and public policy affect investment, manufacturing, technology, workforce development, and economic competitiveness.

The selected companies—Samsung Electronics, Hyundai Motor Group, LG Group, and SK Group—have collectively invested billions of dollars in manufacturing facilities, research, technology development, and job creation throughout the United States. Their operations provide valuable case studies regarding implementation of legislation regularly considered by Congress, including the CHIPS and Science Act, the Inflation Reduction Act, trade policy, supply chain resilience, energy security, advanced manufacturing, and foreign direct investment.

Each meeting has been structured as an educational policy discussion rather than a corporate presentation or promotional event. Participants will examine how congressional legislation influences long-term investment decisions, industrial competitiveness, technological innovation, workforce development, and international economic cooperation.

No company participating in the delegation provides financial support for the program, selects participants, determines the educational agenda, or exercises any control over the content or administration of the delegation. Corporate participation is limited exclusively to educational discussions that advance the program's stated objectives.

These meetings are educational in nature and are intended solely to provide participants with a better understanding of the practical implementation of public policy. They are not intended to promote any commercial product, service, investment opportunity, or corporate interest.

COMPLIANCE STATEMENT

KAGC is committed to conducting the Congressional Staff Educational Delegation in full compliance with all applicable House Rules, regulations of the Committee on Ethics, and guidance governing privately sponsored congressional travel.

The delegation will be administered in accordance with the itinerary and supporting materials submitted to the Committee. Should any material modification become necessary, KAGC will promptly notify the Committee and comply with all applicable reporting requirements.

All expenditures will be incurred solely for educational purposes and will be limited to reasonable and necessary costs directly supporting the approved itinerary.

Air Transportation

Participants and accompanying KAGC staff will travel between Washington, D.C. and Seoul using commercial economy-class airfare. Airfare estimates are based on publicly available commercial fares available at the time of budget preparation and represent reasonable good-faith estimates.

Estimated airfare has been calculated at approximately $1,800 per traveler.

The estimated room rate is approximately $150 per night based on publicly available pricing from commercial travel providers.

Meals

Working breakfasts, lunches, and dinners have been budgeted using conservative estimates consistent with ordinary nonprofit business travel. Meal expenses are intended solely to support the educational schedule and are not designed to provide entertainment or luxury dining experiences.

Ground Transportation

Ground transportation includes airport transfers and transportation between scheduled educational meetings.

Transportation costs have been minimized by grouping meetings geographically whenever practical and by selecting lodging that reduces travel time between program locations.

Educational Program Administration

Administrative expenses include educational materials, participant orientation, meeting coordination, interpretation support when necessary, communications, and logistical management required to administer the delegation effectively.

These expenses directly support the educational objectives of the program and are necessary for the successful administration of the delegation.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Students prepare for congressional meetings on bills related to the Korean American community.

Students speak with Sen. Cory Booker (D-NJ) about Korean American policy priorities.

OUTLOOK ON THE 119TH CONGRESS

Korean American policy advocates can confront the challenge of legislative de-prioritization by learning how to align their policy goals with those of lawmakers.

The Outlook on the 119th Congress is included as part of the Legislative Development report to provide readers with an overview of the key political actors and policy priorities in the upcoming legislative session. The latest version covers a political landscape where President Trump and the Republicans have won full control of the White House and Congress – although Democrats still have the ability to influence the legislative process as the minority. For at least the next two years, the Korean American community should expect to see a close collaboration between the newly elected President and Republican leaders in Congress, as they look to enact many of his presidential campaign promises – border security and immigration; government efficiency; AI and cryptocurrency; environmental deregulation; and America First foreign policy.

White House

Among President Trump's policy objectives for his second term, the five listed in the Outlook are Border Security and Immigration; Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE); Environmental Deregulation; Foreign Policy; and Technology: AI and Crypto. These policy issues were central to Trump's overwhelming victory in the 2024 United States Presidential Election, as voters were generally dissatisfied with former President Joe Biden's handling of the inflationary economy, the border crisis, and peace negotiations of the wars in Israel and Ukraine. For each of these key areas, the White House synopsis entails the domestic political context, Trump-led initiatives, prospective challenges, and the potential policy impacts on the Korean American community.

Senate

The 119th Senate could serve as a bastion for Korean American policy priorities that may be overridden in the House of Representatives. A major development is the leadership change for Senate Republicans, where Senator Mitch McConnell (R-KY) stepped down after 17 years of serving in the top party role. His successor, Senator John Thune (R-SD), holds a traditionalist conservative background but also vowed to implement Trump's agenda without compromising the Senate's status as a co-equal branch of government. The Outlook assesses that Senator Thune and a group of moderate Senate Republicans will hold the key in moderating some of the stances on Trump's core policy priorities that will affect the Korean American community, such as funding for social welfare services, immigration, and U.S.-Korea relations. Moreover, Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer (D-NY) and Senate Democrats are better positioned than their House counterparts to combat partisan legislation, due to the greater impact of defections in the Senate – granting it a crucial role to maintain legislative progress on Korean American issues.

House of Representatives

Legislative productivity looks to ease for the 119th House of Representatives as Speaker Mike Johnson (R, LA-4) presides over a slim but relatively united Republican majority. Emerging out of a tumultuous 118th Congress, the Outlook foresees that President Trump will play a key role in maintaining political stability among the various House GOP factions – to ensure that his core policies are enacted without major opposition to him nor to Johnson’s leadership. On the other hand, House Minority Leader Hakeem Jeffries (D, NY-8) does not face any immediate threats to his leadership role but faces growing pressure from the Democratic Caucus to formulate a clear strategy of opposing Trump’s agenda and regaining control of the chamber in 2026. Because of these reasons, the future of Korean American legislation in the 119th Congress is uncertain – as less political drama will allot more floor time for legislative consideration but bipartisan measures in support of the Korean American community may be set aside in favor of conservative bills.

In the heading of this letter, we indicated whether you must file an annual information return. If you're required to file a return, you must file one of the following by the 15th day of the 5th month after the end of your annual accounting period:

Schedule Changes and Substitutions

The Committee on Ethics' approval was received during the week of departure, leaving KAGC a limited period to finalize certain meetings and site visits with counterparts in Korea. As a result, several activities were rescheduled, canceled, or replaced while maintaining the educational purpose and substantive focus of the approved program. The planned meetings with Samsung Electronics and Hyundai Motor Group could not be finalized and were replaced with meetings with Korea Zinc and LG. These substitute meetings remained within the approved program's focus on U.S.-Korea economic relations, industrial investment, advanced manufacturing, and supply-chain issues. The Korea Zinc meeting focused on critical minerals and strategic supply-chain cooperation, while the LG meeting focused on U.S. investment and manufacturing activities. The planned DMZ visit could not be finalized and was replaced with a full-day educational visit to the Unification Observatory in Gangwon Province, maintaining the program's focus on inter-Korean relations, regional security, and the division of the Korean Peninsula. Separately, the planned meeting with Anduril Technologies was canceled due to circumstances on Anduril's side. The planned meeting with the Office of National Security, Office of the President, scheduled for September 10 at 4:00 PM, was canceled due to circumstances on the Korean counterpart's side. Other approved meetings, including AMCHAM Korea, MOFA, Hanwha Ocean, and the U.S. Embassy Seoul briefing, were held on different dates and/or times based on counterpart availability. These scheduling changes and substitutions remained within the overall educational purpose and substantive focus of the approved program.
